Associated Press Staff Writer.
Political oratory of six candidates for governor and an aspirant for the United States senate was mixed with barbecue at Fourth of July celebrations Monday in Georgia.

Others of the 57 asking democratic nominations for state jobs in the primary of September 14 either spoke or spent the day in individual vote-getting activity.

It was the first big day of the state campaigns. The capital building here was closed and officeholders seekingrenomination or higher posts
in the state government took advantage of the opportunity to seek political favor without interference with their regular occupations.

During the past week state politics were almost eclipsed by the democratic nominations for state jobs from now until the primary date candidates will "shell the woods" in advocacy of their various candidacies.

Governor Richard B. Russell Jr., finishing the train station at Chicago, filled his engagement at Waycross in the interest of his candidacy for the remainder of the unexpired term of the late Senator William J. Harris.
He is being opposed by Congressman Charles R. Crisp, for 20 years representing the third congressional district at Waycross. Mr. Crisp has not yet opened his speaking campaign,
awaiting the adjournment of congress.

Thomas W. Hardwick, a former governor and United States senator, one of the 10 now desiring to be the 1933-34 governor of Georgia, spoke from the same platform at the celebration at Waycross. Mr. Crisp has not yet opened his speaking campaign,
awaiting the adjournment of congress.

John L. Kelley, aspirant to the governorship, divided the day at Fitzgerald and Valdosta. His Fitzgerald address was confined wholly to lauding the democratic party for nominating Franklin D. Roosevelt for the presidency, while at Valdosta he pledged

10,000 Hear Talmadge Open Campaign for Governorship

BY R. E. POWELL.
McRAE, Ga., July 4.—Asserting that the prospect of submission to the states of the 18th amendment for preferential action called for "an able, God-fearing man in the governor's chair," Eugene R. Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture and candidate for governor, formally opened his campaign here today. He placed himself on record as favoring "an honest living for every American citizen."

The Talmadge rally attracted the largest political gathering in the state, more than 10,000 attending the barbecue, melon-cutting and public speaking events. Judge Eschel Graham, of the Oconee circuit, presided and after the speech Talmadge was greeted by enthusiastic friends and was carried out of the park on the shoulders of his admirers.

Many candidates for other offices
were presented to the gathering.
Friends of the agriculture commissioner said it was the most magnificent speech of his public career.

Mr. Talmadge's address follows:
"One hundred and fifty-six years ago today we declared ourselves free and independent of the British yoke of taxation. The fight then was against taxation without

BARNEY JURY TOLD OF 'OTHER WOMAN'

Doctor Tells of Jealousy of American's Wife Over Pistol Victim.

LONDON, July 4.—(AP)—Dramatic evidence concerning "the other woman"
was projected today into the murder trial of beautiful Mrs. Dolores Barney, of the West End set, who stands accused of shooting her close friend, Thomas William Scott Stephen, after a night of revelry May 31.
The witness who told the story was a Dr. Durant whom Mrs. Barney called to her obscure but attractive apartment on the night of the tragedy. Dr. Durant gave a detailed account of the scene.

He said Stephen was dead and Mrs.
Barney, overpowered and hysterical,
and babbling incoherently, again and again kissed the body.
The witness said the young woman told him she and Stephen had quarreled the night before over another woman and that a reconciliation had followed, but the doctor said, Mrs.
Barney told him she and her socially prominent companion had resumed
the quarrel after a visit to a night club. Then Stephen threatened to leave the flat and go to the other woman.

Mrs. Barney threatened to kill herself, the doctor went on, relating her story to him, but Stephen obtained

Walker and Hague To Aid Roosevelt

NEW YORK, July 4.—(AP)—A declaration of party loyalty was made today by Mayor James J.
Walker, upon his return from attending the democratic national convention in Chicago.

"The convention has made its choice," the mayor said. "I am a democrat and, irrespective of any contingencies, I will vote the democratic ticket, as I always have done."
Apart from this expression of allegiance to his party, the mayor declined to discuss politics or the convention.

Mayor Frank Hague, of Jersey City, returned from the convention today
with the avowed intention of supporting the Roosevelt-Garner ticket. His political associates confirmed the fact he held no reservation over his unsuccessful attempts to elevate Alfred E. Smith.

representation. The doom of that inequity was sealed with the blood of our fathers.
"Today we are met to celebrate that momentous occasion, cannot conceive of a better form of celebration than for us to again assert our selves free of the evil that has risen among ourselves—taxation to the point of starvation. We need no greater incentive to urge us to rise up in our might and cast this load from our shoulders than one short look at the future through the anxious eyes of our growing children."

Today I am offering myself to lead the people of Georgia in this great undertaking.
"Georgians have been educated to great platforms from gubernatorial candidates.
"It is appropriate for a candidate for governor to have a short platform,
one to which he has given deep consideration and on which time can make little change.
"Georgia, in her legislation, must keep in mind the average man.
"The three vital things that are in everyone's mind at present are:
First—Making an honest living.
Second—Educating our children.
Third—Good roads.
"Before the World War with its peak of high prices on all commodities, making an honest living was certainly not a problem.

HOOVER TO CALL SPECIAL SESSION IF RELIEF FAILS

Snell, After Conference
at White House, Says President To Have His Program Passed.

WASHINGTON, July 4.—(AP)—
The statement that should President Hoover veto the $2,100,000,000 unemployment relief bill he would keep congress in session until some acceptable legislation is enacted was made tonight by Representative Snell, the house republican leader.

There appeared to be no question that the chief executive's objections to the public works provisions in the democratic jobless aid measure would lead him to return it without his signature. It is expected to reach him by Wednesday or Thursday.

Snell, who was chairman of the republican national convention, spent the week-end with the president at his Rapidan camp in the Virginia mountains and had supper at the White House after Mr. Hoover's arrival early this evening.

Asked his views on the relief situation later, Snell said:
"We are going to have relief legislation no matter how long we stay here. If the president should veto the relief bill, and congress adjourn without any relief legislation, the president will call us back within 24 hours. He will not let us leave here without enacting an acceptable relief bill."

Snell did not specify the chief executive's objections to the relief measure on which senate and house conferees had just reached an agreement.

Representative Rainey, the democratic leader, said yesterday the bill would not be rewritten to meet the president's objections. He added he did not think the president would veto it.

Fight Beer Vote.
Senate leaders determined to avert
if possible a vote on the pending Bingham proposal to legalize 3.2 per cent beer. There was talk among some of junking the administration sponsored home loan discount bill, to which the beer proposal has been offered as an amendment, in order to avoid the issue at this time.

There also were growing demands for a vote on the general question of currency inflation. Senator Borah republican, Idaho, was leading a movement in the senate for a vote on the plan which had the circulating privilege to $1,000,000,000 of United States bonds.

Conferees on the relief bill will meet early tomorrow morning to go over the final draft of the compromise measure.

House leaders indicated they would ask for its immediate consideration in order to send it to the senate if possible by tomorrow night.

There was no agreement today on what procedure would be followed if the bill should be vetoed by the president.

Speaker Garner, who has expressed doubt whether it could be passed over a veto, said he did not intend to press would stay in session to await the president's action.

"If the president vetoes the bill and sends it right back with recommendations," he said, however, "the house might take it into consideration."
Urges Signing.
Senator Wagner, democrat, New York,
sponsor of the bill in the senate,
expressed the hope in a radio speech
that the president would sign the bill.
He characterized the measure as "a well-designed lever to give American industry a lift and a start until its own great native strength can be brought into vigorous action again."

The argument for those seeking a beer vote came today from Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, who recently indicated he believed the time had come to modify the Volstead act.
"It is not reasonable to expect that when we are about to adjourn we shall pass something that we have thought over for years," he said.

"The democratic party of this country has never yet voted against my party platform," one of them said.

Macon's Bow Raising Is Colorful Ceremony

Above are two construction views of the giant naval dirigible Macon, whose bow was raised Monday at Akron with ceremonies in which Macon citizens had leading parts. A general view of the gigantic frame with the fabric being fitted over it is given above, while in the inset is a picture of one of the huge "master rings" being assembled on the floor preparatory to raising.

AKRON, Ohio, July 4.—(AP)—A small shiny whistle was blown vigorously today by a young woman from Macon, Ga., and before its shrilling echoed through the sun-shot confines of Zepplin dock, another landmark in American airship construction had been passed.
The occasion was the ceremonial
bow lifting of the last of Uncle Sam's navy airships, the U. S. S. Macon, named in honor of the city of Macon, Ga., and sister ship of the U. S. S. Akron.

A delegation of Macon residents, headed by Mayor G. Glenn Toole, of Macon, and Miss Susan Myrick, Macon newspaper woman, who whistled
the huge nose into place, were part of a crowd of 15,000 who watched the ceremony.

Raising of the bow virtually completed the framework of the 6,500-cubic foot craft, which is expected to be ready for its trial flights next January.

The Macon delegation occupied a platform within the dock. Miss Myrick, who was the first to whistle, was followed by the western progressive bloc.

Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, recently announced from the floor of the senate that he would not support President Hoover if he ran on the platform adopted at Chicago.
He particularly objected to the progressive plank which he described as "naked repeal."

Later, Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, declared he would not support Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt. He said his refusal to support Mr.
Hoover in 1928 had been justified by subsequent events. Senator Smith, of New York, also declared he would not support Mr. Hoover.

Mr. Thomas told commons he had received a note from the Free State government insisting on arbitration of the annuities question before an international tribunal. He said the government could not permit a foreigner to arbitrate a domestic dispute and therefore must consider collection of the annuities in the form of tariffs.

During debate on the resolution it developed that the Free State was setting aside a special fund for land annuities in anticipation of arbitration. This surprised the dominion secretary who said the issue now selected seemed to be the constitution of an arbitration tribunal. He insisted, however, on his resolution.

The government's resolution was supported by a margin of 278 votes
in the first test before the house.
After it had been proposed to collect the semi-annual installment of some $11,000,000 by the tariff route.

JOHNSON PRAISES ROOSEVELT NERVE IN WESTERN TRIP

Statement Throws Renewed Fear Into Ranks of Already Strife-Torn Republicans.

BY JOHN A. REICHMANN.
WASHINGTON, July 4.—(UP)— Strife-torn republican ranks suffered a new jolt today when Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, issued a statement praising Governor Franklin D.
Roosevelt for his poise, good nerve and frankness in flying to Chicago to address the democratic convention.

Outspoken critic of President Hoover on many occasions, Johnson declined to amplify his statement when asked by newspaper correspondents
whether his glowing tribute to Roosevelt indicated he would support the New York governor in the coming presidential campaign.

"There was something fine and gallant and exhilarating in Roosevelt scrapping the old tradition and at once going to meet the democratic convention," Johnson said.

Roosevelt's action in writing the acceptance speech in a special airplane, Johnson said, was "a tribute to the poise, good nerve and frankness of the writer and exhibits no four in expression of views." He described the speech as "the most important of our day and in his whole history."

"What an improvement," the statement said, "is this innovation over the old tradition where a candidate sits like a sphinx for weeks searching out woe, words and ambitious phrases with duplicitous and doubtful meaning that may be read in any fashion by any person or group?"

Johnson expressed the hope that the "new human, manly method adopted by the democratic candidate in his candid and forthrightness" would prevail in the coming campaign.

Although the California senator's statement made no mention of deserting republican ranks, it served to intensify the unrest that has been muting by the western progressive bloc.

Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, recently announced from the

CHILDRESS BELIEVED
LOCATED IN CHICAGO
Search for C. B. Childress Jr., 20, sought in connection with a hit-and-run accident in which a Tech High school senior was instantly killed, turned to Chicago Monday, when it became known that Chief of Police T. O. Sturdivant had asked Chicago police to look for Childress in that city.

Childress is alleged to have deliberately swerved his automobile into the path of a car on Whiteford avenue Thursday night, instantly killing Felton Allen O'Kelley, 17, of 672
Gordon place, and injuring Miss Frankie Mae Davis, at whose home
"hobo" party was being held. Following the killing of young O'Kelley Childress is alleged to have darkened
the night of his car and sped away.
Chief Sturdivant Monday admitted
he had received secret information to the effect that Childress had fled to Chicago and was staying with friends.
On the basis of that "tip," he said he had wired Chicago police to arrest the

GOVERNOR SWEET IS BACK IN FOLD

DENVER, July 4.—(AP)—Former Governor William E. Sweet, of Colorado, democrat, has advised Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt he will support his candidacy for president.

Sweet campaigned for President Hoover four years ago on the prohibition issue.

BY PAUL H. KING.
ALBANY, N. Y., July 4.—(UP)— Confident of party harmony devoid of bolting, Franklin Delano Roosevelt returned to Albany tonight from the democratic national convention to face
four months of strenuous campaigning for the presidency.

The governor appeared cheerful as he stepped from his special train car
as more than a thousand persons stood in the rain to cheer him.
"Hello everybody," he shouted. The crowd roared as the democratic nominee for the highest job in the nation
posed for photographers.

"The next president," shouted an elderly man who was completely impressed by the crowd.
The governor grinned and waved his Panama hat, the same one he held aloft triumphantly when he entered Chicago stadium to deliver his official acceptance address.

Nearing Albany on his triumphal return from the convention city, the governor was optimistic, elated by the rep. oses accorded him at stations along the line, and more than usually communicative about his plans.

Only on one subject was he wholly silent, the question of Alfred E.
Smith's support of his candidacy. He had hoped to meet Smith in Chicago, and was disappointed when he learned that the candidate of four years ago
would not support him.

"What action do you suppose Mr.
Smith will take?" he was asked.
"Nothing to say," he replied, somewhat reticently.
He reiterated that he will stand squarely behind the prohibition plank and for direct repeal of the eighti-enth amendment. "He feels," it was said, that it will not take a single one of the southern states from the democratic column, although it might cut down the vote to some extent.

"It may affect one or two states,"
he said, "but in no case very seriously."
At Rochester the train was met by Former Congressman Meyer Jacob-stein and a group of admirers from that city.

"The Smith boys here feel fine," Jacobstein assured him as they shook hands.
"Hello, everybody," the governor shouted as the welcoming group swept around his car, and he grinned with them.

Fireworks' Toll Is Less

By United Press.
Six youths blown to bits in Montana . . . 10 men shot to death in Kentucky . . . a dozen persons drowned in Texas floods . . .

Those were the major tragedies of the three-day Fourth of July holiday
as automobile, fireworks and swimming deaths the country over brought the fatality total close to 200 Monday night.

In the southeast 25 were dead from various causes and 19 were seriously injured. One man was shot and killed in Louisiana during a holdup. Another Louisianan drowned, a victim of a heart attack while swimming. No deaths had been attributed to fireworks. Automobile accidents claimed 11; shootings 8; suicide 2, and drowning 4.

A total of five people were reported dead in Georgia; two from automobile accidents; two being fatally shot and one suicide. Automobile accidents had also accounted for the serious injury of 12 people.

Most spectacular of the tragedies
was in Butte, Mont., where six copper miners' sons carried a case of dynamite into the Meaderville baseball park at dawn to celebrate the fourth.
Excitedly they broke into the box to make fireworks. They started to wrap the dynamite sticks in newspapers to avoid dynamite cops and fuses. One of them tumbled.

A terrific blast woke the city. Bodies of the youths were horribly mangled.

in the Kentucky mountains and coal fields accounted for 10 deaths. The

Holiday Observance Here Marred by Thunderstorms

Atlanta celebrated Fourth of July in the same manner which has marked the observance of Independence Day by this city in years past, with excursions to seashore and mountains, picnics in near-by shady dells, trips to swimming pools, movies and amusement centers proving the chief attractions for recreation seekers.

Brief showers in the morning, followed by a heavy downpour, served to interfere seriously with those who journeyed to Ponce de Leon ball park or to Lakewood in search of amusement. The second half game and part of the scheduled automobile races having been rained out, disappointing thousands.

Fireworks celebrates this year confined their activities to the smaller and less harmful type of explosive,
with the result that casualties from that source were lower this year than in the past.

During the heavy thunderstorm
late in the afternoon lightning struck one of the old-fashioned brick chimneys on the roof of the Kimball house, toppling it to the roof and causing a few bricks to fall into Pryor street, but no one was struck.
The chimney, a massive affair, fell through the roof to the top floor, doing considerable damage to the roof but otherwise having no serious effect.
The day was observed as an official holiday by banks, office workers, downtown stores and the residential grocery stores, as well as by the federal, state, county and city governments, which released thousands of government workers for the entire day. Movies did a thriving business, with the exception of the late afternoon shows, which felt the effects of the thunderstorm.
Few automobile accidents marred the Fourth. Those that occurred were of a minor nature, and no fatalities occurred.
Only five persons suffered burns or other injuries in fireworks accidents in Atlanta, according to Grady hospital reports. Those listed as applying for treatment were Ernest Jones, 11, 327 Fulliam street; Dewey Scarborough, 657 Cresthill avenue, N. E.; Walter McMichael, 511 Lake avenue,
N. E.; Mary Jane Rogers, 10, of 571
Glenn street, S. W., and Carroll A. lien, 13, of 398 Cooper street. All suffered minor burns on the hands or face and were dismissed after treatment.
One drowning occurred. A negro,

ing the doom of national prohibition. Another group finds both conventions to have been stamped by wet "rowdism" and a play on "mob psychology."

With few exceptions the editorials—and they number several hundred assembled in Chicago by the Associated Press by wire and air mail since the adjournment of the democratic convention—credit the democratic platform with courage in taking a flat stand for repeal, however views may differ as to the expediency of the action.

That is largely true regardless of party affiliations and is paralleled by charges of "pusillifuging" against the republicans on the part of some anti-prohibition republican publications.

Submission vs. Repeal.
Taking up first those editorials which hold that the major issue of the presidential campaign will be republican submission vs. democratic repeal:

Portland (Maine) Press Herald: "Prohibition is now become the major issue in the presidential campaign."

Winfield (Kan.) Daily Courier: "This issue will be the one nearest the people and of greatest concern."

Bozeman (Mont.) Chronicle: "The election will come the nearest to constituting a national referendum on this subject that the country has yet had."

Newport News (Va.) Times-Herald: "The prohibition declaration will be the major issue."

Washington (D. C.) Post: "The election of the next president may turn upon this question, and upon no other. The democratic party stakes its existence upon this plank. It is a noble experiment."

In many different ways a large class of republican and democratic wet and dry newspapers declare that, at any rate, a definite wet and dry issue confronts the nation.

Says the New York World Telegram and other Scripps-Howard newspapers: "At last prohibition repeal is in sight. The democratic platform joins the issue. The democrats have made a wise move politically."

Parties Divided.
Parsons (Kan.) Sun: "The issue is joined."

St. Joseph (Mo.) News-Press: "The nation knows where the two parties stand and they are as far apart as the poles."

Watertown (N. Y.) Daily Times: "The issue is before the people, clearly defined as between the two parties."

A few editors, some of them republicans, bluntly assert that the democrats did what the republican convention wanted to do—left to its own sentiment and freedom of action," says the Akron (Ohio) Beacon Journal.

"The republican convention would have reached a judgment at one with that which the democratic party offers the nation. The difference was that that convention was not free to act. There were too many federal job holders among its delegates."

Coming to editors who venture predictions on the outcome in November, the St. Louis (Mo.) Star says: "The democrats have at one stroke carried every big industrial city in the Union."

The republican Sacramento (Cal.) Bee and other McClatchy newspapers say: "Other things being equal, the action of the democrats should give them a tremendous advantage in November."

Of special interest is the reaction of southern democratic editors who differ as to the part the democratic repeal plank will play in holding party lines intact in that area.

But, says the Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser: "Mr. Hoover is a beaten man. Prohibition is a beaten issue. The democratic platform has sealed his doom."

Constitutional Stand.
The Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution says: "The wisdom of the boldness and directness of the democratic plank as against the timid, irresolute, wordy republican declaration, is shown by the instant response received from both republicans and democrats."

"Such ardent drys as Senator Norris, republican, and Senators Fletcher, Broussard and Hawes, democrats, have warily indicated, in absolute assurance of democratic success."

With such a platform and with Franklin D. Roosevelt at the head of the ticket, the democrats are certain to carry every southern state, sweep the west and get enough states in the north and east to roll up the greatest victory ever registered in a national election."

Jackson (Miss.) Clarion Ledger: "The south will stand by the democratic party this year, as it has always stood by it, but this plank will be a nauseous dose to swallow."

Charleston (S. C.) News and Courier: "Not in years has South Carolina been a dry state. This state has been in the hands of small politicians and terror of the powerful section of the clergy and groups of excellent but not well-informed women. It is free now."

Vote Winning Plank.
Asheville (N. C.) Times: "From a purely party standpoint, it seems most probable that the democratic plank will win more votes than it will lose."

A surprisingly large number of papers make no predictions in weighing the two prohibition plans. "We shall see what the American people think," says the Little Rock (Ark.) Sun.

"Time alone will tell," echoes the Tacoma (Wash.) News Tribune.

All predictions are characterized by the Des Moines (Iowa) Register as "speculation" and by the Detroit (Mich.) Free Press as "purely a matter of opinion at this stage of the proceedings."

Among papers scanning the two platforms to find constitutional prohibition "doomed" are the St. Paul (Minn.) Pioneer Press, the Roanoke (Va.) Times, the Two Rivers (Wis.) Reporter and Chronicle and the St. Louis (Mo.) Democrat, which sums it up by saying: "The facts indicate clearly and unmistakably that federal prohibition is on the way out."

One group headed by journals of militant dry alignment warn voters that repeal means necessarily the return of the mob.

Mob Movement.
A number of editors discern mob movement with ulterior promptings, behind the wet drift of both conventions. The Albany (N. Y.) Evening News, of the Gannett chain, declares the democratic convention acted "in a wild, unbridled, even in a frenzied, manner."

Says the Rock Hill (S. C.) Herald: "That the democratic convention was swayed by a wet atmosphere and the dry cause was not given fair treatment was emphatically evident."

The Macon (Ga.) Telegraph declares "The present enormous drift to repeal is a fine manifestation of mob psychology." And the Fairmont (W. Va.) West Virginian strikes a note common to several others in saying that the democratic repeal victory "may turn out to be the victory of a determined, well organized and well financed faction at the expense of the party."

The expression of approval of repeal from definitely anti-prohibition newspapers and the paralleling from definitely dry newspapers are legion.

The big metropolitan cities like New York and Chicago sing a psalm of rejoicing at the turn of events.

The democratic platform marks the dawn of sounder thinking," says the Cleveland (Ohio) Plain Dealer.

"The reassuring inference to be drawn from the prohibition repeal plank is that in the end political parties do catch up with the movements of popular opinion," observes the Baltimore (Md.) Sun.

Only Needed Plank.
Many smaller papers join in. "The wet plank alone," says the Paducah (Ky.) Sun Democrat, "should be sufficient to carry the democratic ticket to victory in November."

The New Britain (Conn.) Herald describes it as "a turning point in the era of pussyfooting by political parties on the prohibition issue."

The Flint (Mich.) Daily Journal hails the repeal plank as a "triumph for the cause of liberalism."

Similarly, the prohibition stalwarts:

The Oklahoma City (Okla.) Daily Oklahoman: "Regardless of forthrightness or equivocation, national prohibition has been betrayed in both party bivouacs. The coward does it with a kiss—the brave man with a sword."

The Christian Science Monitor (Boston, Mass.): "The attitude of the noisier sections of the wet crowds at both conventions implied that these elements do not wish to hear or consider reason."

Congress' Power.
One note sounded by several editors is in pointing that the congress, not political conventions, frames constitutional amendment proposals. "We will have to see what the democrats elected to congress think about it," says the Portland (Me.) Evening Express, sentiment echoed by the Clarks-dale (Miss.) Daily Register in this for congress, says the Salina (Kan.) fashion. "Despite the repeal plank, it is up to congress. Every candidate less their wet and dry positions."

to repeal is a fine manifestation of mob psychology." And the Fairmont (W. Va.) West Virginian strikes a note common to several others in saying that the democratic repeal victory "may turn out to be the victory of a determined, well organized and well financed faction at the expense of the party."

Strict Economy Great Need Of Georgia, Hardwick Says

Former Governor Discusses Issues of Campaign for Old Post in Waycross Speech.

WAYCROSS, Ga., July 4.—Protection of railroads from unfair competition with motor vehicles operated for profit, strict economy in individual and governmental affairs, enactment of a state anti-trust law to prevent combinations of buyers from robbing Georgia tobacco farmers, featured the address here yesterday of Thomas W. Hardwick, candidate for governor.

He declared that the state must pay its floating debt for unpaid appropriations to school teachers, pensioners and the various institutions, and must in the future live within its revenues. In order to do these things, he said, every expenditure, large and small, must be cut to the bone.

"Great savings can be made," he urged, "by reducing excessive overhead in at least three departments: highway, agricultural, fish and game. Trimming each to its proper size, would put an end to machine and bureaucratic government in Georgia."

"In times of profound depression no individual can hope to escape complete ruin unless he reduces his expenses in every direction, so as to bring them within his reduced income. The same is true of the national and state governments and all other governments."

"There should be much sharper and more drastic restriction on the size and character of all motor vehicles operated for profit upon our paved highways, in order to protect those highways from destruction."

"Would Limit Weight."

"In my opinion, the law should limit the weight of all motor vehicles, including contents, operated on our highways to ten thousand pounds and should prescribe reasonable dimensions for such vehicles so that they will not 'hog' all the road or make it dangerous or impossible for anyone to pass them. We have spent something like $150,000,000 upon the constructing of our present system of highways."

"Mr. McWhorter, chief engineer of the highway department, has estimated that we are spending at least $3,000 per mile more than would be necessary to accommodate 90 per cent of the vehicles that operate on them, this extra expenditure being necessary by the remaining 5 per cent of very large and heavy trucks and buses. Mr. McWhorter has also said that the type of paved roads we are now putting down in Georgia should last on the average twenty-five years, but when subjected to present usage

by trucks and buses without limitations as to weight and size, the highways are not likely to last 12 years. In other words, unless we do impose such limitations as to weight and size upon these vehicles within 12 years they will cost the people of the state more than $65,000,000 in the destruction of capital investment in the highways.

Are Largest Tax Payers.
"The railroads of Georgia have long been our largest tax payers, in the state, county, city and school district. In the year 1930, they paid the total amount of $4,079,182.50 in taxes to the state and its various subdivisions. In that year, the gross earnings of the railroads was slightly over $79,000,000, so that this tax burden was slightly in excess of 5 per cent of the gross earnings and constituted a very considerable part of the profit from operation."

"Since 1930, the gross earnings of the railroads have decreased about one-third, leaving their probable gross earnings for 1932 at about fifty-three million dollars, and their tax charges have remained fixed at four million dollars, or almost 8 per cent of their total gross earnings."

"Shall we permit great buses and trucks operated by the Pennsylvania railroad and other alien corporations to wear out our public highways between Atlanta and Chattanooga and to imperil both the capital and lease value of our own property, and to threaten the solvency of our lessees?"

Employ 50,000 Persons.
"Fifty-five thousand of the best citizens of Georgia work for the railroads. If the average family of these men be five persons, then almost three hundred thousands of our people depend upon them for meat and bread. Shall we imperil their livelihood and throw them into the ranks of the unemployed? I say no, and no a thousand times, I insist that we must, first, bar these heavier trucks that are so rapidly destroying our highways from operating at all on them; second, increase the license charges and taxes on the smaller ones that will be left so as to afford a fair and balanced competition between them and the railroads in those localities and for those services where such competition is desirable, in the public interest."

SWIMS SIX HOURS AFTER BOAT CAPSIZES

NORFOLK, Va., July 4.—(AP)—Orville J. Lower, who was reported drowned early today when a boat with four men on board capsized off Little creek, was rescued this afternoon after being in the water more than six hours. Two other members of his party had previously been saved while Lower saved himself by drifting about in the water on a cushion from the boat in which he went fishing. He then tied himself to a fish pound pole where he was found.

MISSING FLIERS ARE FOUND ALIVE IN AUSTRALIA

SYDNEY, Australia, July 4.—(AP)—Captain Hans Bertram, German aviator, and his companion, a man named Chauaman, who have been missing since May 17, were found alive today. The two aviators dropped out of sight after they took off from Kupang Island on a flight to Darwin.

The first news of their fate came in the middle of June when natives handed over to a missionary a handkerchief and cigaret case on which were the initials H. B. Search was begun immediately.

The aviators told a tale of harrowing experiences and suffering which beset them since the middle of May, when they landed 80 miles from Wyndham.

They were at last discovered by natives 12 miles from their abandoned plane. The natives supplied them with food and sent for assistance. Bertram, just able to walk, was carrying a piece of cooked kangaroo in a towel.

FIVE PERSONS KILLED IN BOMBAY RIOTING

BOMBAY, July 4.—(AP)—Five persons were killed and fifty were injured today in riots between Hindus and Moslems. At several points the police were obliged to fire on unruly mobs.

HOOPER RETURNS TO WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, July 4.—(AP)—President Hoover returned to the White House late today from his fishing camp at Rapidan.

Motoring to the Virginia retreat Saturday the chief executive spent two full days with political and governmental advisers around him.

Secretaries Hyde and Hurley were with him. Another guest was Representative Snell, of New York, who was chairman of the republican national convention.

The president divided his time between working and resting. There were indications Mr. Hoover gave some time to the speech with which he will accept the republican nomination for re-election.

AUSTIN ANSWERED BY CHARITY GROUP

Women's Relief Body Responds to Charges Concerning Dance July 16.

Mrs. J. R. Wakefield, chairman of the Emergency Relief Commission, women's department, committee in charge of a charity dance to be given at the city auditorium on the night of July 16 and Mrs. M. H. Margeson, the commission's general chairman, Monday issued the following statement in answer to charges filed Saturday by L. L. Austin, secretary of the Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association regarding division of the profits of the enterprise with alleged promoters.

"We have noted with some regret and amusement the newspaper publicity given us in the Sunday press by L. L. Austin, secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association. We regret his unwarranted and unjustified interference with our efforts to help the needy of this city, and we are amused at his insinuations that there was something terribly wrong with the contract we had with a Mr. Sasser.

"He published that contract with some degree of gusto and pushed out his chest just a little and patted himself on the back, as though he was quite a hero to have discovered our contract. We wonder, however, what he and the Retail Merchants' Association really think is wrong with it. We agreed therein to give this Sasser person 50 per cent of the proceeds and in turn he agreed to bear all the expenses of the dance we proposed and still propose to have. What's wrong with that?

"There is some expense attached to every effort to help the poor. For the past several years many thousands of dollars have been contributed by the public to the Community Chest, but it cannot be said that all of it went to feed and clothe the hungry and needy. There were salaries to pay to those who administered the funds and various other expenses attached to it, which we venture to say are up more than 50 per cent of it before it reached the needy causes and persons for whom it was subscribed and paid. This is necessarily true and no one is to be criticized about it and for that reason we are still unable to see what is wrong with our contract.

"We note also a statement from the man Sasser, declaring that he had no further connection with the enterprise. We are unable to understand why he would breach his solemn contract, but if he can satisfy his conscience and his creditors with such cowardly conduct, then let him go in peace and bathe himself in the sunlight of L. L. Austin's unbounded generosity.

"As for us, we have every penny of our share of the proceeds of our contract, and we will use it to help the poor and needy and the dance will be put on in accordance with our original plans. We did not know Mr. Richards in the making of our contract, had no dealings with him, and had not the slightest idea that he had any connection with it, either directly or indirectly. Sasser was the man who approached us. He presented us a contract, which we thought was advantageous. We had no idea who drew it, but we signed it. There was no secret about it, and we had the permit required by the city ordinance before we commenced to operate under it.

"All of this is just a question of much ado about nothing, prompted by a little jealousy on the part of the Men's Emergency Relief Committee, which wants to be the 'whole cheese.'"

"MRS. J. R. WAKEFIELD,
"MRS. M. H. MARGESON."

BUDDY WHELAN JOINS STAFF OF MARATHON

Buddy Whelan, well-known vaudeville and radio star of Atlanta and Miami, Fla., became master of ceremonies Monday night at the marathon dance in progress at the Palms Peachtree, Whelan, who formerly played here at the old Grand theater and with the Public stage show at the old Howard, flew to Atlanta Monday from Miami to assume his new duties.

The 25 remaining dancers in the marathon completed their 320th hour of dancing Monday and are still in good physical condition, according to the medical staff in attendance. For the last 150 hours of dancing no contestant has dropped out. There are 12 couples and a girl solo, Clara Kelley, of Atlanta, left in the marathon. Whelan is widely known as a master of ceremonies and a producer of stage shows in Florida, where he has been for the last several years. He was a featured artist and master of ceremonies at the Spanish Garden night club at the Alcazar hotel and of the Club Bagdad, at the Hialeah track, for the last three years.

Bargain night will be held at the Palms Peachtree tonight and one person will be admitted free with every paid admission. Whelan will present a special comedy skit entitled "East Side, West Side" at the evening performance tonight.

LEE BAKING COMPANY OFFERS SMALL LOAF

A new five-cent Colonial loaf is being introduced today to Atlanta people. This new, smaller loaf is designed to meet the need of the small family for whom the generous size 10-cent Colonial loaf is too large.

"The five-cent loaf of Colonial bread," said Mr. Miller, the Lee Baking Company has worked hard to make this new Colonial value possible, and it is sure the public will welcome the small family loaf just as they have each new product of Colonial bakers. The company will continue to feature its large twisted loaf at 10 cents.

WILLIAM HARD SPEAKS OVER RADIO TONIGHT

the National Broadcasting Company network tonight at 8 o'clock. The series is sponsored by the national advisory council on radio in education in conjunction with the American Political Science Association. Station WSB will carry the program locally.

OLD AGE PENSIONS.
Old age pension laws, already in existence in 39 foreign countries, are gradually gaining in favor in the United States, according to a statement of the federal bureau of labor statistics, in which it is pointed out that 17 states have already enacted such legislation.

In each of these states straight pension plans have been put into effect, the entire cost being borne by the public through taxation. More than 55,000 old people, under these laws, are now being given periodic cash payments, at an average rate of $14.34 a month, in New York, California, Colorado, Kentucky, Maryland, Montana, Nevada, Utah, Wisconsin, Wyoming, Minnesota, Massachusetts and Delaware. Other states which have enacted laws have not as yet put them into operation.

The early old age pension laws in the United States were nearly all of the type which left the adoption of the system optional with the counties, but the recent trend has been definitely towards the mandatory form of law. Of the laws passed by five states in 1930, four were mandatory, while in 1931 both Colorado and Wisconsin amended their laws so as to make them mandatory.

While the laws vary somewhat in their details of operation, in all of the states applications for pensions are filed and passed upon by the county authorities and in all but six the counties bear the entire expense. In the other half dozen states the state government aids the counties, in varying proportions, in old age aid.

To be eligible for a pension the applicant must have reached a certain age—65 years in eight states and 70 in nine. He or she must have been a citizen of the United States for 15 years. The maximum pension runs from a dollar a day in some states to $250 a month in Kentucky.

In many foreign countries, especially among the republics of South America, the old age insurance plan has been in effect for many years. Under this plan the government collects a stated amount of the earnings of a man or woman as soon as they reach working age and they are granted an income at ages varying from 50 to 70 years.

While old age insurance has never been favored in the United States, the pension plan has shown steady growth during the past five years that it is probable that eventually each state in the Union will grant a living income to those who have reached years of infirmity and have no relatives upon whom they can depend for support.

RUSSIA'S OPEN DOORS.
After nearly a decade during which the travel of the world avoided Russia, because of difficulty of entrance and the hardships to be encountered after entrance had been gained, the Muscovite nation has within the past 12 months become the biggest immigration country in the world.

Reports from such European cities as Berlin, Warsaw and Belgrade tell of trains packed and jammed with motley crowds headed for the land of the five-year plan.

Travelers, German engineers, French electricians, American mechanics and technicians, social workers from Holland and Britain—economists, teachers, investigators, students, diplomats—are now pouring into the nation which is trying out the most radical departure in government in the history of civilization.

Soviet consulates in every European city are thronged with men and women seeking visas which will enable them to enter the country where change is the watchword, and where many of those things held most sacred by all the nations of the world for centuries past are now taboo.

From every quarter of the globe, representing every race and color, thousands are pouring into Russia at a rate which will soon cause that country, instead of the United States to become the melting pot of the world.

How that influx of men and women will influence the experiment in communism is a question that only time will answer.

These new Russians may enlist under the banner of sovietism, but it is more probable that they will spread seeds of discontent which may well spell the downfall of Stalin and his associates who are now cracking the whip over a nation of 160,000,000 people.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW
BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

The Red Army.
The red army looks like a formidable and efficient fighting machine. It lacks nothing in equipment or discipline. The morale is high. No citizen of the soviet union, not even the upper commissars in Moscow, are so well looked after as the soldiers. Thirty per cent of the army is communist, some say the percentage is higher. But that doesn't mean the other 70 per cent is anti-bolshevik. Far from it. Every soldier is a soviet citizen and simply serves his own country as he would serve the czar only much more enthusiastically. I doubt not.

You have only to read the older Russian writers to know what conditions were like in the old army. A common soldier was treated no better than a beast by many of the officers. That system is changed now. Soldiers and officers are comrades. Away from duty there is no distinction in rank or class. No saluting out of camp or barracks. But on duty there is strict discipline based not so much on harsh rules as on a sense of co-operation between all ranks.

The commander-in-chief, when I am going to see him in Moscow, is a former metal worker. No reason to laugh at this either. Let us not forget that Trotsky was no professional military man, yet he defeated some of the best strategic brains of the old regime.

Love in Russia.
Heavens above, what a lot of bun-bun and nonsense has been written on that subject when you come to think of it. Love here there is all that sort of thing. Love goes its own way. Plenty of flirting in the parks and go-go-go-ing and the things take their usual course. One thing has changed only—marriage or divorce rather. It's easy to get a divorce in Russia, but here there is a tightening up of the rules and regulations. The looseness must be conducive to efficiency in work. It was found. And why here there is a changing of wives must in the end become a bother.

You know what you have, but you don't know what you are getting. But depend upon it, ninety-nine and nine hundredths per cent of the folks here still have the same wives they started out with.

One thing that has disappeared is prostitution. Before the war Petrograd was notorious for this evil. There isn't any of it left today, not openly and not clandestinely either. No need of it. There is work for all. Those girls who have a leaning toward vice, a natural leaning, I mean, are treated as sick persons and sent to hospitals and made to work under hygienic and restful conditions.

Jews Can Travel.
Best equipped to stand the strain of long travel are the Jews. And no wonder. They started out meandering through the world as nomads. Their ancestors were satisfied to sit in front of their caves, feet in the sun, drinking some primitive, stimulating beverage from a gourd. They were not enemies of their mothers-in-law, but amounts to the same thing perhaps. When you go on trains here about dining cars and you forget to lay in a stock of provisions for a day and a night, the Jews are never in such a quandary. They have bread and meat and cakes and kettles and cups and pans and proceed to prepare a meal no matter how great the crush about them.

It's a way of a wise old nomad position. (Copyright, 1932, for The Constitution.)

By Sergeant L. E. Jaekel
(All Rights Reserved.)

GEORGE HAMPTON YARBOROUGH JR., first lieutenant, 5th regiment, U. S. marine corps, 2d division, American Expeditionary Force. Awarded the navy cross for extraordinary heroism in action with the enemy in the Bois-de-Belleau, France, June 23, 1918.

Lieutenant Yarborough displayed exceptional bravery when his platoon was in a support position under intense artillery fire, moving from one shell hole to another and standing by his men. After making one trip over his line he was wounded by an exploding shell but refused aid until he saw that the wounded soldiers with him had been treated and taken to shelter. He later died as the result of the wounds sustained during this exploit.

Residence at appointment, Atlanta, Ga. Posthumously awarded. Medal presented to George Hampton Yarborough Jr.

DONERS
The natives of Papua are cannibals. They live in tribes and are ruled by the chiefs.

BONERS are actual humorous tid-bits found in examination papers, essays, etc., by teachers.

Contrast our climate with that of the Antipodes: "When it is summer here it is winter there and vice versa."

When we are poisoned you should use a cosmetic.

Their ancestors were satisfied to sit in front of their caves, feet in the sun, drinking some primitive, stimulating beverage from a gourd. They were not enemies of their mothers-in-law, but amounts to the same thing perhaps. When you go on trains here about dining cars and you forget to lay in a stock of provisions for a day and a night, the Jews are never in such a quandary. They have bread and meat and cakes and kettles and cups and pans and proceed to prepare a meal no matter how great the crush about them.

After making one trip over his line he was wounded by an exploding shell but refused aid until he saw that the wounded soldiers with him had been treated and taken to shelter. He later died as the result of the wounds sustained during this exploit.

A Match King Is Still a Swindler
If He Fools the Buyer
By Robert Quillen

Old Japan was a land of distinct social castes. At the top stood the soldier; at the bottom the trader. Craftsmen who made tools and gear for the gentry were near the bottom of the social scale, but even those were superior to the man who got his living by making a profit on another's labor.

The trader was despised because the very nature of his calling made him seem a cheat. How could he make a profit unless he bought an article for less than its worth or sold it for more than its worth?

The development of a complicated civilization created a new standard of values, in Japan as elsewhere. Prosperity depends on commerce, and there can be no commerce without some agency to provide channels of distribution.

The distributor is worthy of his profit, as the laborer is worthy of his hire. Both render a necessary service. But trading is not yet free of suspicion. It may be either a benefaction or a swindle.

To discourage the taking of unjust profits, the law provides a penalty for those who obtain money under false pretenses. The trader may sell gold bricks at a profit, but he goes to jail if he pretends the bricks are gold when they are merely plated lead.

The crime is in the pretense—the false statement of value that persuades the victim to pay more than an article is worth. Why, then, do law and custom excuse the swindler who sells stocks by misrepresenting their value?

If investment houses offer a stock that has little or no value, and hire publicists to make the public believe it is a swindle, the public is buying it, what do you call the scheme if it isn't a swindle?

What if people are persuaded to buy worthless lots on the pretext that their value will double within a year? If that isn't obtaining money under false pretense, what is it?

Politely swindling has become a respectable profession in America, and there will be no safety for investors until the law makes a criminal of every man who seeks to obtain a profit under false pretenses.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON
BY MOLLIE MERRICK.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 4.—Well, this being the date, how did you enjoy your Independence?

Hollywood took its independence out at the heels of the studios were shooting. Even producers agreed that sun and sand and solitude mean something when you can get three consecutive days of it. Malibu was in full swing and even those far reaches beyond the colony where you have to get the state guard out to deliver a telephone message were popular for this three-day holiday.

But in from the outlying places came the holiday-makers to attend the wedding reception of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bern. When all the Hollywood stories are over, Jean Harlow will be identified by her own name doubtless; such is the way of fame. The movie crowd here is a simplicity and informality. She received her guests in stunning pajamas of emerald blue with a little flaring jacket. The color intensified her platinum beauty and youthful charm.

Several hundred guests, whose list included all the colony's famous, strolled under the stars to the home—one of the loveliest rustic houses hereabouts located in the hills above Benedict Canyon.

Lilyan Tashman caused almost as much excitement as the bride. But Lily Tashman can give a bride a run for her money any day. She attempted the reception in a costume of pink and blue which she confessed she's been "dying for an occasion to wear" and what occasion could be so perfect as a wedding?

Norris Urges Probe Of U. S. Farm Board

WASHINGTON, July 4.—(AP)—An immediate investigation of the farm board was demanded today by Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, author of a resolution for an inquiry.

The senate ordered the investigation several months ago. Chairman McNary, of the agriculture committee, has made no move, however, to open the inquiry because of the heavy legislative program before the senate.

"I have made repeated requests," Norris said, "that the chairman of the agriculture committee call a subcommittee together and launch this inquiry."

"I don't think the delay is justified. The inquiry ought to have been started long ago."

Abner Nix, Athens' entrant in the gubernatorial race, confined his remarks at Covington's barbecue sponsored by the American legion and at the Woodmen of the World celebration at Athens to patriotism.

Speaking at Covington, Nix said "faith in American institutions must be preserved. Government must be responsive to the needs of the common people and taken from the hands of demagogues and exploiters. Special privilege must be abolished and the will of the people must be made supreme."

Governor Russell, in his Waycross speech, said he invited the united opposition to the Georgia convention and public utilities and professional politicians to his candidacy for the senate.

Paramount officials said they will comb the country for an "unknown" to portray the role of the "Faint Heart" in the screen production, "The Girl in the Red Velvet Swing," to be filmed from H. G. Wells' novel.

All of the democratic leaders of the state had been strong Smith supporters with the lone exception of Curley.

Walsh already has signified his intention of supporting Roosevelt in the election but Ely, so far, has remained noncommittal.

He said: "Mr. Rockefeller is surrounded by lawlessness and the rotten and unspeakably filthy government New York city has had under Tammany for the past several years."

The bishop asserted that Mr. Rockefeller had had inadequate information on prohibition when he declared for repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The churchman denied the truth of assertions that drinking had increased and that the best of American citizens were violating the law out of pique.

"How can a man be one of our best citizens and flaunt the constitution?" asked Bishop Cannon.

He spoke under the auspices of the Ocean Grove Camp Meeting Association.

NATION FACES CRISIS

Candidate Is Speaker at Covington's Independence Day Celebration.

COVINGTON, Ga., July 4.—(AP)—

speaking at a barbecue and Independence Day celebration here today, said that the crisis facing the nation presents a challenge to the manhood and womanhood of America "equal to that which faced the country in 1914."

"Poverty, fear, loss of confidence and social unrest have swept down upon our people," Nix said. "The members of the American Legion and its auxiliary today can be the leaders in bringing order out of chaos just as they gave their services in 1914-18 in restoring peace and order to the world." The celebration here was sponsored by the Legion.

"Faith in American institutions," Nix continued, "must be preserved. Government must be made responsive to the needs of the common people and taken from the hands of demagogues and exploiters. Special privileges must be abolished and the will of the people must be made supreme."

turned to Athens, where, he was chief speaker later in the day at Fourth of July dinner sponsored by the Athens Woodmen of the World. In his address he pleaded for a closer cooperation on the part of all classes within the state.

Tuesday Nix, accompanied by Mayor or A. G. Dudley, of Athens, will leave for a week's tour through the mountain counties of northeast Georgia. He will visit Banks, Habersham, Rabun, Towns, Lumpkin, Wilkes and White counties. No speeches are scheduled on this tour.

MACON BOW RAISED AT CEREMONY

Myrick, dressed in white, sat beside Mrs. Frederick W. Lohmann, wife of an executive of the Goodyear Zeppelin Corporation, which is constructing the airship.

Above, high in the gloomy recesses of the dock, workmen scurried about and cranes waited at the controls of the cables from which the huge bow construction dangled.

At a word over a telephone from the dock top, Mrs. Lohmann handed a corsage of roses to Miss Myrick. Smiling, the Macon woman put to her lips the whistle used last November by the assistant secretary of the navy to start construction.

At the sound, the 75-foot bow section, which had been hanging point downward, began to creep slowly upward. Careful manipulation of two winches, a crane and work by four sets of engineers, kept the big nose under control.

When it had been raised sufficiently high, the point was pulled into a horizontal position, the entire construction lowered to the floor, and then hoisted straight up into position. The whole procedure required but 45 minutes, a new "record time" for the job.

Miss Myrick then "stole the show," as cameramen and newspaper photographers crowded around her. Smiling, she complied to requests from her fellow workmen to pose. Later, the Georgia group were guests of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Company at a dinner.

In the Macon party were John L. Morris, Don C. Bryan, J. D. Boone, Harry B. Palmer, Herbert Smart, F. J. Gilbert, W. T. Anderson and W. W. Anderson.

The U. S. S. Macon is of the same dimensions as its sister ship, the U. S. S. Akron.

It is 785 feet long—greater than the corresponding height of a 50-story skyscraper. It has a maximum diameter of about 132 feet, and an overall height of about 146 feet. The ship will have a cross-lifting power of 400,000 pounds and a useful lift—plus about 200,000 pounds of fuel—of nearly 82,000 pounds.

The Akron is the world's largest and fastest airship. The Akron—and also the Macon, when it is completed—is nearly twice the size of the Graf Zeppelin and nearly three times the size of the Los Angeles.

Five Slayings.

In California there were five slayings and 15 suicides in addition to drownings and automobile deaths.

Thirteen were drowned in Texas, nine of them in floods south of San Antonio. Record-breaking rains in an area noted for dryness sent rivers and streams billowing over fields, through villages and across highways. Most of the towns affected still were isolated. The Red Cross rushed food and tents into the area. Damage was estimated at more than $1,000,000.

Despite widespread rainy weather in the Midwest, spoiling the plans for many a holiday tour, automobile deaths led the list with nearly 100. There were more than two-score drownings, and nearly as many miscellaneous deaths, including the murders, suicides, airplane accidents and household mishaps. The latter included three scalded to death by boiling lard in Iowa.

Thanks to widespread precautionary measures and stringent laws against the more dangerous cannon crackers, there were less than a dozen deaths attributable to fireworks.

PHILADELPHIANS MARK 150TH INDEPENDENCE DAY

PHILADELPHIA, July 4.—(AP)—Amid scenes inseparably linked with the nation's history, Philadelphians gathered today at Independence Hall to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the Glorious Fourth.

Striking the keynote for scores of neighborhood celebrations, the exercises at the birthplace of the Declaration of Independence paid tribute to the revolutionary heroes who proclaimed the country's freedom at this very spot.

Ernest Lee Jaback, assistant secretary of the navy, delivered the principal address. He was followed by the historic shrine was thrown open to the throngs who invariably crowd its sacred portals to view the famous liberty bell and other treasures.

One of the highlights of the program was the customary reading of the Declaration of Independence.

INDIAN BATTLEFIELD MARKED BY THOUSANDS

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 4.—(AP)—Dedication of a simple log cabin and stockade today brought thousands of visitors to the scene of George Washington's first battle of the French and Indian War.

A reproduction of Fort Necessity was dedicated as a national shrine. Speeches by Colonel Edward Spafford, past national commander of the American Legion; Major Emanuel E. Lombard, representing the French embassy, and Colonel Fitzmaurice Day, representing the British embassy, were on the second day program of the exercises.

Here, a few miles east of Uniontown, Washington engaged the French in 1753 when he was a young officer in the service of the British.

PHILIPPINES OBSERVE DAY BEFORE AMERICA

MANILA, July 4.—(AP)—Before the United States began its formal celebration of the Fourth of July, the Philippines, aided by a difference in time, had completed celebration of Independence Day.

Today's principal observance in Manila was the usual military parade followed by an address of Governor General Theodore Roosevelt in which he told the Filipinos that privileges enjoyed under the American flag carry definite responsibilities.

LE BRUN CALLS ON U. S. TO INSURE WORLD LIBERTY

PARIS, July 4.—(AP)—President Alfred LeBrun, of France, tonight appealed to the United States and his own country—"two great world democracies"—to strive for liberty of the world by mutual sacrifices and by fruitifying their centuries-old friendship.

His address was the climax of the annual Fourth of July observance here and was given before the American Chamber of Commerce's banquet, where he was guest of honor.

Frank B. Kellogg, former American secretary of state and co-author of the Briand-Kellogg pact outlawing war, called for world disarmament, and departed from his prepared text to praise the Hoover plan to cut armaments nearly one-third.

He said this was proof that America is "desirous heart and soul of cooperating in a solution of world problems."

Norman Armour, American charge d'affaires, delivered a message for Premier Edouard Herriot of France, who was unavoidably absent. Mr. Armour said the American people appreciated M. Herriot's efforts to save the reparations problem, and expressed a hope for a satisfactory issue at Lausanne.

MELLON IN LONDON TALKS REES PROSPERITY'S RETURN

LONDON, July 4.—(AP)—Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon told the American Society tonight that confidence will return in the United States "just as soon as we are able to think again in terms of what we have and what we are, rather than what we have lost."

The ambassador was speaking at the Fourth of July dinner of the society, which was also addressed by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University, New York.

"Today we are suffering from a lack of confidence," Mr. Mellon began, "not as regards fundamentals, but only as regards the best means of overcoming the difficulties immediately ahead. These difficulties we shall overcome in time."

All sources of our national wealth are still there. We still have our vast natural resources, our great industrial organization with its complete and modern equipment, and an efficient labor force as any to be found in the world."

Dr. Butler declared "the interdependence of nations is the twentieth century corollary of the Declaration of Independence."

"We can no longer solve the problems of the twentieth century," he went on, "by reciting the maxims of the eighteenth century or shibboleths of the nineteenth century."

ACCUSERS OF AMERICA ARE ASSAILED AT JUTLAND

REBLID PARK, Jutland, July 4.—(AP)—The American minister to Denmark, F. W. B. Coleman, in Independence Day address here today, departed from his subject, "George Washington," and attacked those people who are representing that Americans "are the shirkers of the world."

"The morale of every European debtor has sunk pretty low, when either government or press lends itself to this propaganda," he declared.

Under cross-examination the physician said Mrs. Barney was in a "crazy state of mind" and could not at the time have invented a story that was not true.

clusion of today's session the woman was white and trembling and a war-dress held each arm as she left the dock.

The prisoner was attired in black, relieved only by little stripes of white on her close-fitting hat. A wisp of her nearly platinum blonde hair peeped from beneath the brim.

London papers devoted pages to the trial, detailing every incident from the arrest of Mrs. Justice Humphrey's robe of scarlet and ermine to his nosegay of flowers, carried in accordance with tradition.

The jury included two women. Mrs. Barney's father is Sir John Ashley Mullens, Sir Patrick Hastings, one of London's foremost attorneys, is counsel for the defense.

BIRTHDAY OF COOLIDGE MARRED BY HAY FEVER

PLYMOUTH, Vt., July 4.—(AP)—Calvin Coolidge spent his sixtieth birthday in his homestead today nursing an attack of hay fever and watching a steady rain beat against the window panes.

The former president's son, John, and his wife were week-end guests, but they left late in the afternoon. There were no bustling firecrackers or other appurtenances of Independence Day to punctuate the silence of Green Hills. A messenger boy made several trips to the homestead with telegrams and letters of congratulations from the day.

Typical Fourth of July weather prevailed over this section Monday, the day dawning with light showers, followed by bright, cloudless skies in the morning and sporadic showers falling during the day.

GYTTON CELEBRATES REMOVAL OF DEBTS

William G. Suttle, Savannah, Principal Speaker on Double Program.

GYTTON, Ga., July 4.—(AP)—Reviewing the colonial history of this immediate section, William G. Suttle, managing editor of the Savannah Evening Press, said in an address here Monday that Effingham county had a right to claim George Walton, one of the Georgia signers of the Declaration of Independence, as a resident of this county.

Mr. Suttle was the principal speaker at Gytton's combined Fourth of July and Gytton debt-free celebration.

The gathering here, he said, was for a double purpose. It gave notice, Mr. Suttle continued, to the world that this progressive town "had met in full its financial obligations and that the authorities fully realize that while private credit is wealth, public honor is a security."

"Gytton has kept faith with its creditors," he continued, "and those whose basis of trade was the town's honor in meeting its obligations. Through the payment of these debts and the burning of these notes today Gytton has shown that the confidence of those who trusted it had not been misplaced."

Regarding Gytton's claim on George Walton as a resident, Mr. Suttle recalled that he was born in Virginia and came to the colony Georgia as a young man, later signing the Declaration of Independence, and "while he is usually assigned to Savannah, the early records show that he was really serving as a member of St. Matthews parish (later a part of Effingham county) and for this reason should be credited to what is now Effingham county."

A good many years ago Gytton decided to put in an electric light and water plant. This improvement cost a good deal of money and the town issued bonds to the amount of $15,000. The Supreme Lodge Knights of Pythias and T. J. Garling, a wealthy citizen of Macon, bought these bonds and there was some litigation over them which finally resulted in the town assuming the obligation to repay them with interest. The bonds and accumulated interest eventually reached $24,000 and the situation was very serious. There were legal proceedings with a compromise agreement by which the town was to pay so much a year interest and reduction in premium. Finally the town sold the water plant to R. A. Eastling, of Denmark, S. C., and through this and other means got the debt down to $1,840.

Included in economical measures have been the reduction of the town marshal's salary and finally the abolition of the office through the cooperation of the county police. There was also a collector of city taxes and licenses whose services were dispensed with. Folks were asked to come to city headquarters and pay, which they did.

There have been other economical measures put in operation and now the last debt has been paid and the town is getting ready to "throw a party" on Independence Day. Associated with Mayor Sowell in this plan have been Aldermen A. W. Sowell, W. J. Brennan, C. W. Burney, W. S. Simmons, W. H. Glisson, N. Arden and W. S. Winn.

BODIES OF TWO MEN FOUND IN GWINNETT

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga., July 4.—(AP)—Bodies of two men, one believed to be that of a white man and the other a negro, were found in different sections of Gwinnett county Sunday night.

Peter Smith, coroner, said inquests will be held this week, and that every effort was being made to identify the bodies.

The body believed that of a white man was found near the DeKalb county line just off the Stone Mountain highway. It was badly decomposed. Residents of that vicinity said no one was missing.

The other body was found at the Woodward Mill bridge on the Buford highway eight miles north of here. A bus driver who made the discovery said there was nothing by which the body could be identified. He appeared to be about 35 years old, had upper gold teeth, one leg shorter than the other, and a four-inch scar from right ear to chin. His left thigh was broken and officers said it was likely he had fallen from a truck against the bridge guard.

JOHN DOWNER PLEA TO BE HEARD TODAY

MACON, Ga., July 4.—(AP)—Attorneys for John Downer, negro condemned to electrocution for attacking a white woman in Elbert county a year ago, will seek his release on a writ of habeas corpus in federal district court here Tuesday.

The defense charges Downer was convicted without due process of law under a threat of mob violence that influenced the verdict against him. Two days before his scheduled electrocution, some time ago, Downer was saved by an order of probable cause which held up execution until the petition could be reviewed by the United States circuit court of appeals.

Judge Bascom S. Deaver was directed to hear the petition for the writ of habeas corpus in a circuit court order which said the writ should be granted if the allegations in the petition were true. Downer is in jail in Macon.

A mob stormed the Elbert county jail after his arrest on the attack charge and national guard troops patrolled the courthouse during his trial.

ESCAPED PRISONERS RETAKEN AFTER BREAK

Two of Trio Captured Near Columbus After Overpowering Buena Vista Sheriff

COLUMBUS, Ga., July 4.—(AP)—Two of the three prisoners who escaped from jail in Buena Vista, Ga., early Monday, leaving Sheriff W. S. Higgins locked in a cell, were captured Monday afternoon near Phenix City, Ala., after several hours' hunt by officers and about 100 citizens of Columbus, Muscogee county, and Phenix City, aided by chain gang track dogs.

The third man, Henry Wilkerson, of Juniper, Ga., was still at large and was believed to be armed with a sawed-off shotgun taken in the escape. Officers believe he separated from his companions soon after the break.

H. E. Odum and W. H. Hering, the two who were captured, offered no resistance when they were surrounded west of Phenix City on the road to Crawford, although Sheriff Wiggins' keys and pistol were found in their possession. Wiggins' automobile, which the trio used in their escape, was abandoned in Phenix City.

Local officers were told the sheriff was attacked when he opened the door of the cell where Wilkerson was confined. He remained a prisoner in the cell for several hours until released by a Columbus locksmith.

Making their way downstairs, the three men held up Mrs. Wiggins and took a small amount of money which she had in her pocketbook. They then jumped into the sheriff's automobile and fled under fire from citizens.

STOCKBRIDGE URGES ECONOMIC FREEDOM

"Honest and Equitable Distribution Needed," Asserts Speaker in LaGrange.

LAGRANGE, Ga., July 4.—(AP)—Basil Stockbridge, former commander of the Georgia department of the American Legion, urged an "honest and equitable distribution of the fruits of toil by the rational process of law and order" in an Independence Day address here today.

His speech called for an "economic declaration of independence to take rank in that field alongside of the declaration of 1776 in the field of politics."

"We must give heed to the plight of the vast and inarticulate masses, whose present distress is so acute and yet without whom the progress, stability and grandeur of our nation could never have been built."

He declared that signers of the Declaration of Independence staked even their lives on the outcome of that document and urged that the people of today draw a lesson from the circumstances of that day.

GEORGIA LEAF MARKET TO OPEN ON AUGUST 18

VALDOSTA, Ga., July 4.—Georgia tobacco growers and warehousemen are now making plans for the opening of the tobacco market on August 18.

The date of opening is governed by the interests of the crop as a whole. Some tobacco is being cured already but the amount is small.

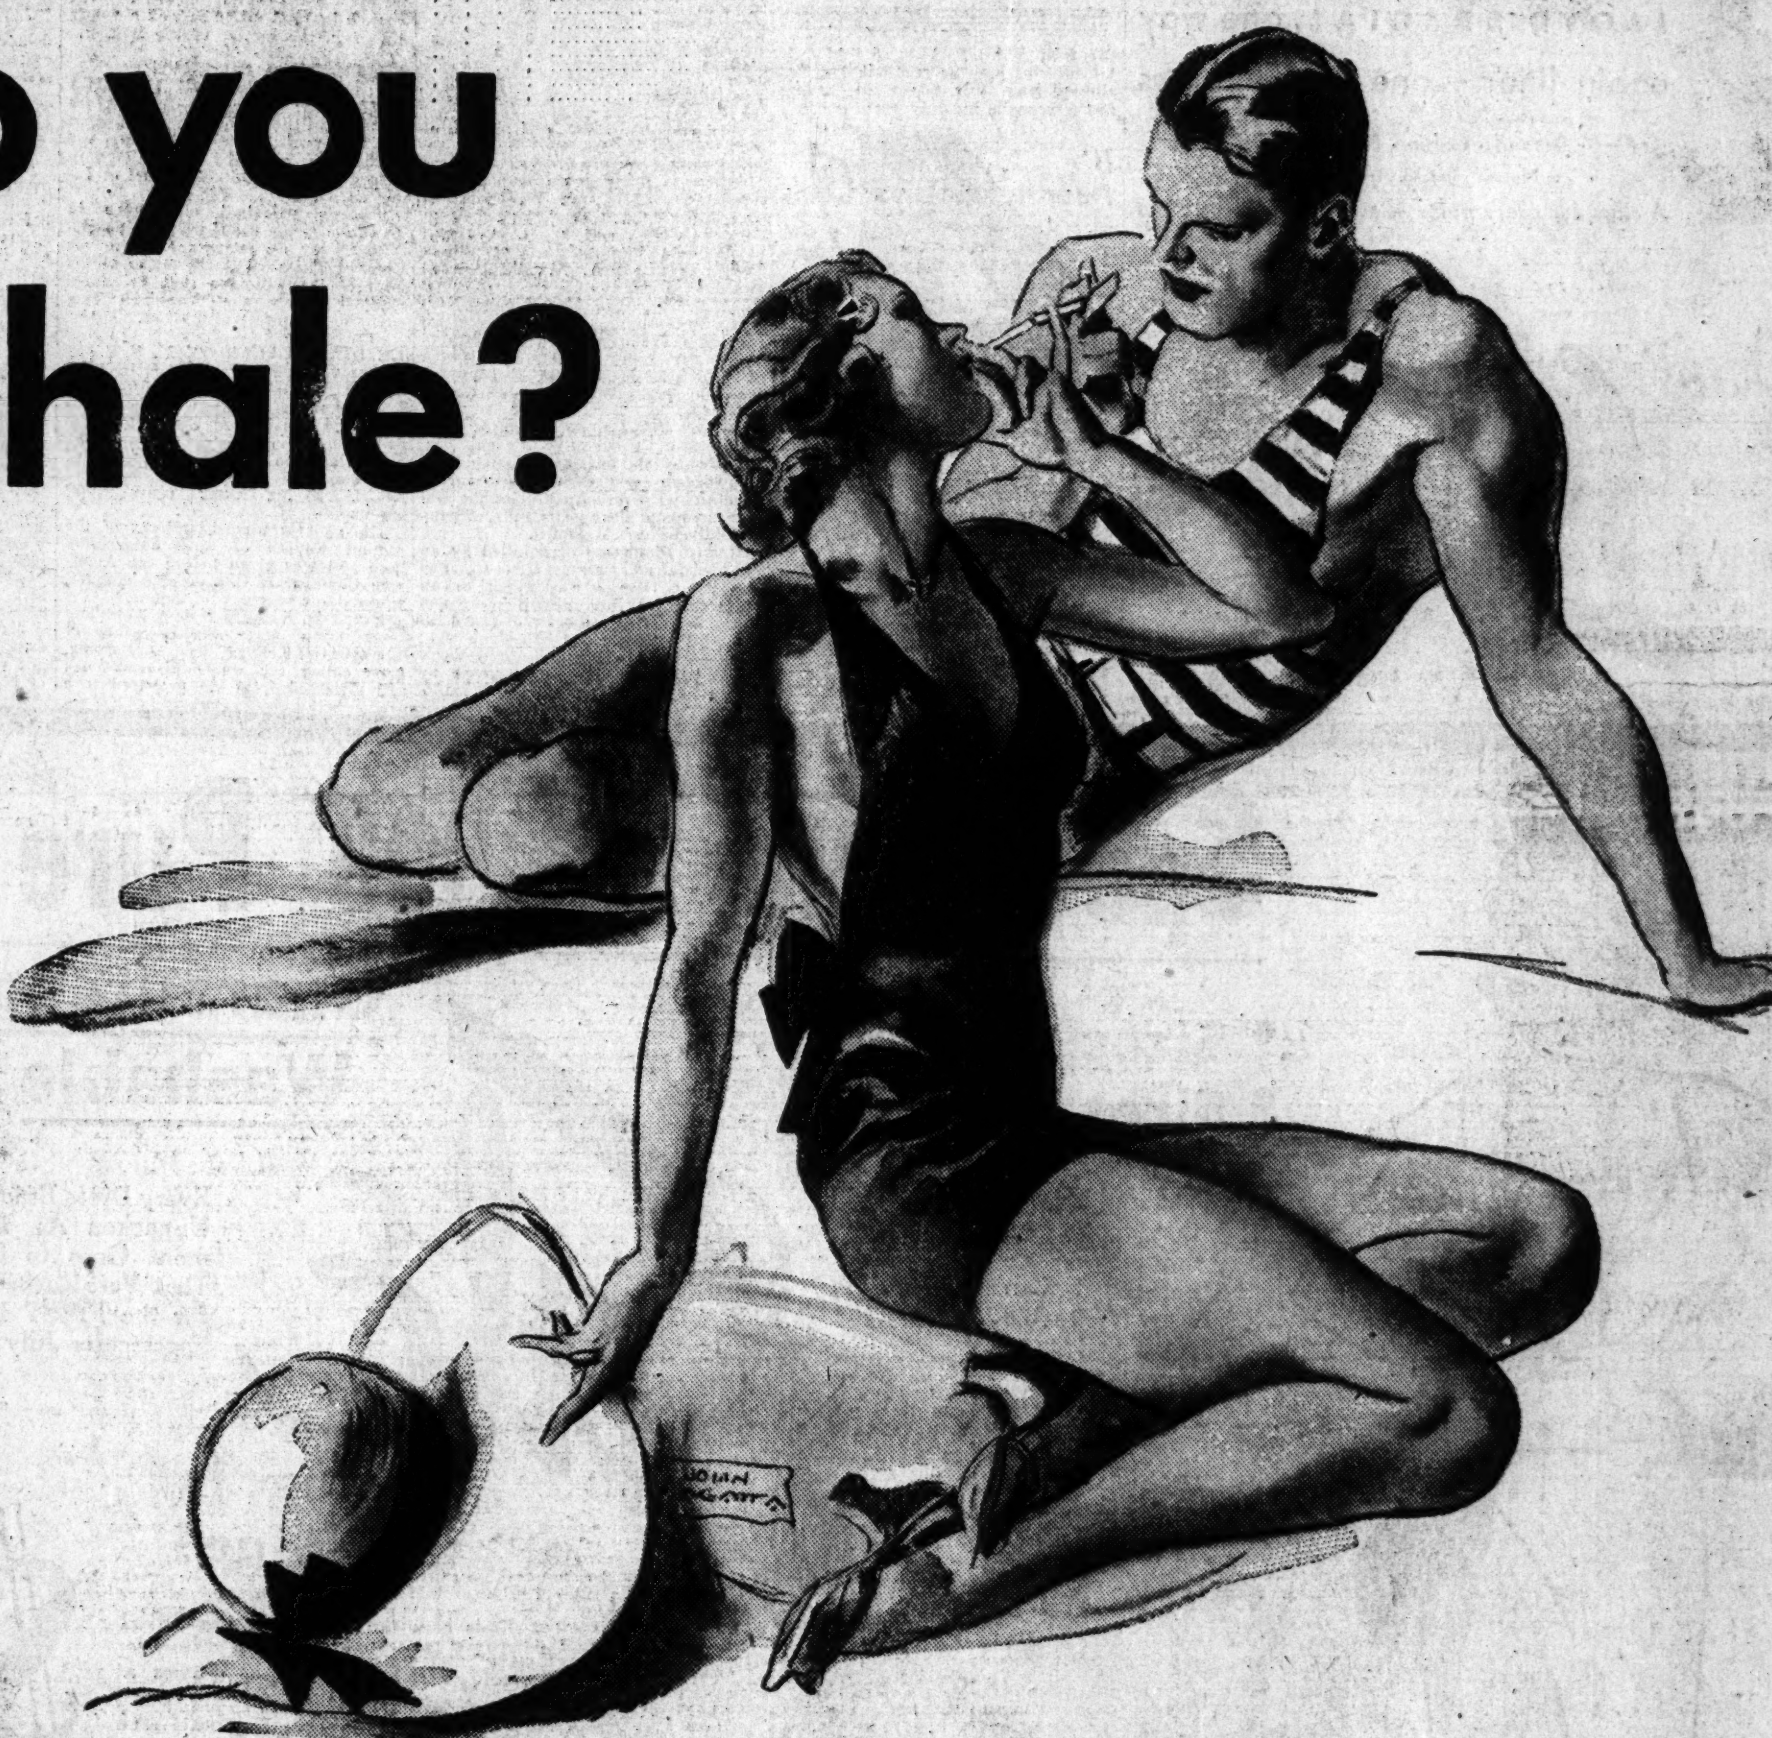

The Georgia market this year opens two days after the South Carolina opening, which is the first time the Georgia crop has been behind.

It is understood that only three warehouses will be opened here this season, those of B. B. Saunders, N. Smith and the Savannah Avenue warehouse. Owing to the expected meager crop, it is believed that the three houses will be able to handle the business.

Do you inhale?

Luckies "make no bones" about this vital question

"KEEP that under your hat," said the cigarette trade when first we raised the question—"Do you inhale?"

But silence is golden only when it's unwise to speak. Let others explain their striking avoidance of this subject. Lucky Strike makes its position crystal clear...for certainly, inhaling is most important to every smoker.

For everybody inhales—whether they realize it or not...every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike "makes no bones" about this vital question because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Boulevard Woman's Club Installs New Officers at Recent Meeting

Reports covering activities of the Boulevard Park Women's Club for the year closing, installation of new officers, presentation of distinguished visitors, a musical program and social hour, featured the annual meeting of the club held Tuesday at the home of the retiring president, Mrs. Raymond H. Wolfe, 700 Park drive, N. E. Mrs. H. M. Williams, newly installed president of the club, has, during the past year, served as recording secretary and previously as corresponding secretary. She is efficient and untiring in her work for the club interests and in presenting the gavel to her Mrs. Wolfe, retiring president, predicted most successful year under the leadership of Mrs. Williams.

Officers re-elected to serve a second term are Mrs. E. D. Thomas, first vice president; Mrs. H. T. Cox, treasurer; and Mrs. A. L. Myers, auditor. Those newly elected to serve with Mrs. Williams are Mrs. W. H. Chambers, second vice president; Mrs. J. C. Weekly, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Raymond H. Wolfe, parliamentarian. Due to the inability of Mrs. N. C. Newman to fill the office of recording secretary to which she was elected, the vacancy will be filled by the executive board.

Twelve new members were added to the club list: Mrs. C. Carroll winning the prize of $2.50 in gold for securing the greatest number of new members. New members include Mesdames O. L. Nelson, W. L. Alcott, R. L. Shepherd, L. Van Staven, A. J. Fincher, R. P. Ellis, Mrs. A. B. Clark, W. O. Gaffney, W. H. Chambers, M. J. Dabney, J. O. Weekly and N. C. Newman. Mrs. Gaffney and Mrs. Chambers were former members. Piano selections were given by Miss Helma Jacobs, recent graduate of Woodberry Hall and winner of a scholarship in music at Shorter College. Among visitors introduced were Mrs. Kate Green Hess, former president of the fifth district Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, who recently returned from a two-year visit to the Orient; Miss Jennie Clark, of New Orleans; Mrs. G. C. In spite of unusual illnesses and depression conditions, the Boulevard Park Women's Club has carried on through constructive activities, under the leadership of its president and officers. Outstanding among club interests for the year was the organization of the education committee. Members of the group having as their slogan, "Know Your Atlanta and Georgia First," have done work preliminary to further literary and cultural studies. More than 25 places of historical, literary or cultural interest in the city were visited and papers or talks outlining the history or special significance of each were given by members of the group. The club also enjoyed special lectures on art by Louis P. Skidmore, director of the High Museum of Art. Dr. W. F. Melton, well-known educator, lecturer and journalist, was speaker at one meeting of the club. The B. P. W. C. is a member of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, co-operating in city-wide projects and community work. An annual membership, honoring the memory of a former officer, Mrs. Emma Ballew, is held in the Georgia Association of Workers of the Blind.

Cash Contributions. In addition to cash contributions to the Tallulah Falls school, Community Chest, larger offerings at Christmas and Thanksgiving as gifts to the needy, gifts to Home for Incurables, Battle Hill sanitarium and the gathering and distribution of books, magazines and old garments for distribution by the welfare department, the club has made and contributed more than three times as much in new garments to the Needlework Guild. Sewing has also been done for Hillside Cottages. Gardens at the Home for Old Women have been enlarged and improved.

Through the efforts of the community improvement department, many dead or dying trees have been removed or replaced, sanitary conditions in Piedmont park have been improved and the committee is seeking elimination of drainage water from a fresh water stream in Orme Park, where the club proposes, through its committee, to build a water garden, plant roses and native Georgia wild flowers. Special tree plantings voted by the club during the year for which special funds were raised were six trees, one each as a memorial to each past president of the club for service to her community. One tree to George Washington and one to Frank L. Stanton.

Serving with Mrs. Wolfe were Mrs. E. D. Thomas, first vice president; Mrs. H. A. Agricola, second vice president (and chairman of hospitality); Mrs. H. M. Williams, secretary; Mrs. J. N. Black, corresponding secretary; Mrs. H. T. Cox, treasurer, and Mrs. A. L. Myers, auditor. The club has had been Mrs. Leaver Richardson, membership; Mrs. G. P. Sasser, house; Mrs. A. L. Bright-hued electric lights will be strung around the terrace, adding a festive air to the scene.

A large number of the younger set will form congenial parties in addition to groups of the married set who will assemble for this affair. A popular local orchestra will furnish music. The semi-annual meeting of Atlanta League of Women Voters will be held at the home of Mrs. Fred Hodgson on Clifton road Tuesday, July 12, from 11 until 4 o'clock. The morning program will include a resume of the work accomplished during the first half of the year. Members of the staff will make a complete report of the work carried on by these volunteer workers, and the board members will tell of all that they have done, since the duty of each board member is to make contacts with other organizations, and present the league and its principles to those interested. The afternoon session will be devoted to the discussion of the subject of changing the name of the league, that is, dropping the word "Women" from the name, so as to include the men's council in the one group. Each member of the Atlanta league has been asked to write her opinion on a post card and send it to league headquarters, so that a comprehensive idea may be obtained of everyone's opinion and all data may be collected to present to the members in facts, the official application of the organization. A picnic luncheon will be served on the lawn.

The vanishing teas sponsored by Atlanta League of Women Voters have been successful, and since so many women will be reached before the whole chain is complete, there are next few weeks. Mrs. E. K. Garrison gives a bridge-tee Thursday, July 7, at her home at 1072 St. Charles place, and Mrs. F. E. Caldwell gives a bridge-tee at her home on Rockmont road Wednesday, July 13. SYNOPSIS. Antoinette Brooks, 18 years old, Tony to family and friends, was left alone in the world when her father and mother were killed in an automobile accident in Centerville, her home town. She has just graduated from high school and intended to go to art school, but she learned that for the last six months her father had fought off bankruptcy. As a child, Tony had taken painting lessons and at 16 she turned her love for line and color to dress designing. No more "studios" appeared on the walls of her home but on all the Brooks tables were albums, all filled with the dream-dresses Tony or her sister would one day wear. When her father's estate was settled, Tony had slightly less than $200. Art school was out of the question just then; she must earn her living and try to save enough for evening classes. Tony's capital was down to $12 when she got a job as helper in Madame Simon's dress shop in New York.

A month later the saleswoman who assisted suddenly and Tony was invited to work for her. She was so frank in advising women who they should not wear that she lost by the coffee. "Best to hunt in the morning. Early bird catches worm." She nibbled at her own segment of cake.

"I loathe worms," Lee sat up so that she could survey herself in a mirror atop the blue painted bureau opposite the bed. What she saw there displeased her.

The water-wave was coming out of her blonde hair, which would not be blonde at all but mouse-colored unless she had the right kind of shampoo at once. Her skin, which should have been fair and transparent, had an opaque saffron tint, and under her pale gray eyes with flecks of darker gray in them were shadow smudges.

"The perfect fright," she said and pinned up the corners of her mouth, which were drooping with the forefingers of her two hands. She sat there for a moment, then removed the finger pins. "No use. A good massage with plenty of cold cream and astringents and ice would do. No matter how beautiful you are, it takes money to keep that way. When you haven't any beauty to begin with..." She broke off, looked intently at Tony.

"Hey, darling," she breathed, "how do you do it?"

"How do I do what?"

"The schoolgirl trick. Roses and cream, cherries and gardenias—a complexion any beauty parlor would be proud to use as a sample. I know. It's that bowl of soup and the roll you eat for luncheon. I'm off out sundown from now on."

"You'll have to be if you don't get up and dress," Tony carried the empty dishes back behind the screen. Nat sundae cost 20 cents apiece.

There was the sound of running water, the rattle of dishes and then Lee's voice cutting through the mercurial of the domestic pie with decision.

"Tony!"

"Just a minute. I'm just tucking in these dishes."

"Tony, I'm not answering the bell."

Something in the words, the manner of their saying, brought Tony out from behind the screen, the towel on which she was drying her hands pressed tightly against her palms.

"You can't answer the bell," she said. "It's out of order."

"I'll say it is," Lee ran fingers through hair that was dank and dull. "Only, I'm not talking about the same

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

BY ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Time and the Cards

One reason that Contract players view pessimistically hands containing overwhelmingly honor strength concentrated in one hand of the partnership is the prime requisite of maintaining communication between the two hands, if the ultimate trick-taking power of the combined holdings is to be realized. The honors are essential entries, as well as stoppers in adverse suits, which permit crossing from one hand to the other at the correct moment. This is axiomatic, and is realized by almost every Contract player. However, even with this knowledge not all players can utilize the full trick-taking power of a hand, because they do not properly time the manner in which tricks should be taken.

Recently, in an important championship match in Boston, the hand below was played. Most of the players were content to bid a Small Slam in hearts. One of them, Mr. Roger M. Nesbitt, however, shooting for a top, decided to bid for a Grand Slam, and made it, due to his thorough appreciation of the element of time in combination with the cards he held.

South—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

TODAY'S POINTER

The time factor plays an important role in developing a hand at Bridge. Bridge is a miniature battle, waged by "pastboard armies" under the generalship of their holder. An appreciation of the value of time makes possible many contracts not otherwise attainable.

TOMORROW'S HAND

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow.

East—Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

SYMPATHY IS THE BELLWETHER OF THE FAMILY LIFE AND WITHOUT IT THE LAMBS ARE LOST.

There are a few prime favorites among the subjects about which people write to problem-columns. One of these is the unsympathetic parent that cannot see eye to eye with a daughter about the matters that are involved in social life, particularly as regards the beaux and dates. Since the world began, presumably, parents and children have been having misunderstandings. For not even blood makes antipathetic natures sympathetic. But these misunderstandings are particularly acute in this day when there has been such a big turn of the social wheel in one generation. In this day when the upshot which mothers and fathers thought was the topmost one in the wheel of social progress is now become the bottom one, in a day when fathers and mothers called license what their children at the moment don't even term liberty and in a day when so-called conventions are utterly disregarded as out-moded and useless, even ridiculous.

Out of this welter comes the wall of a 16-year-old who signs herself "Feared." Who can blame her? I am another 16-year-old girl unhappy at home. My father and mother are opposed to everything I want to do. I am required to be in by 8 o'clock, while the other girls come in when they please. I have recently got my driver's permit and, of course, I want to drive at night. My parents won't let me go to dances with the boys and when I talk on the telephone to my friends they listen to what we are saying. They do permit me to make dates, but when the boys come they sit right with us the whole evening until now the boys have stopped coming. I do try to be agreeable at home, but we just don't get on and that's that. What shall I do?

One has the impulse to jump right in and condemn those parents and others like them, but there is probably another side to this affair as to most disagreements, and we shouldn't neglect to consider it.

The teachers of youths tell us that there is a stage in adolescence recognized as the "misunderstood stage." The majority of boys and girls go through it and emerge, not better understood by their parents, for the parents have understood all along, but better understood by themselves. The flowers that bloom on the hillside are not interesting to the sailor lad that spends his days on a submersible craft, dividing his time between sailing on-

Surely she can recall her own youth with its intolerance of restriction, with its sensitivity to anything that savored of lack of parental confidence with its tremulous eagerness to make a good impression on the boys and its constant fear lest mother or father would offend against some childish code of manners, or find laughable some very serious sentiment. Yet some women do forget all of this and with their sudden, unsympathetic understanding of adolescent problems stultify themselves and alienate their children. CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

EQUIPOISE THIS $20,000 ARRLINGTON RACE

Write your congressman about it. What right has the government to retire von Herrmann, our weatherman for years and years, just when he is getting the weather in hand?

Had he been in his office this rain yesterday wouldn't have happened. You would not have found a small lake on your favorite picnic ground. Your white flannels would not be muddy and ready for the cleaners today. The rain would not have started just as you were about to sink a putt that would have broken 100 for the first time.

Von Herrmann was well-liked by Georgia weather. It had got to be that he could lean out of his tower and argue with a rain cloud and often persuade it to postpone its blowout for a day or so.

Often there were a lot of clouds roaming restlessly about waiting to rain but argued out of it by the veteran Atlanta weatherman.

And so it looks as if poor old punch-drunk congress is to blame for your wet and soggy grand and glorious Fourth.

EQUIPOISE'S GREAT RECORD.

Equipose, the son of Pennant-Swining, is racing himself into comparisons, and not unfavorable ones, with the great record established by Man o' War.

The Fourth of July victory of the great horse leaves him the undisputed marvel of the 1932 racing season. It was just last Thursday that he set a new world's record for the mile, racing around the oval in 1:32 4-5 despite the high weight of 128 pounds. It is a great pity that injuries prevented him entering the Kentucky Derby in 1931, thus marring his record of that season. It is quite likely that Twenty Grand would have lost some races he won had Equipose been in shape.

Equipose has not yet been tested at a distance. He has simply not had the opportunity. There is no reason why he should not go as strong at a mile and a quarter. But meanwhile he stands as the greatest miler in the history of the turf.

While writing of Equipose, it is interesting to note the comment of Earl Sande on Man o' War. Sande has never ridden Equipose but he nevertheless sticks to his belief that Man o' War is the greatest horse the game ever produced, certainly the best of the many good ones he has saddled.

There are some who argue that Man o' War's reign as a three-year-old was over a mediocre crop. Yet this hardly holds when one considers the defeat administered to Sir Barton when that horse was a four-year-old. Sir Barton had won the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness the year before. He was something of a champion himself. Yet the next season Man o' War found him easy. Sande says, of Man o' War:

"The best horse I ever rode was Man o' War. I never was on any other horse that gave me the sense of power Man o' War did. You didn't have to worry about getting him to the front. He would attend to that. And there was a horse that would run faster in the morning workout than many a horse would on the track in the afternoon."

"He would run anywhere, any time you asked him to. And he would run faster than the other horses. Trainers finally got so that they didn't want him to break their hearts. So they figured on starting horses that could win second money."

"Gallant Fox was another great horse, but one that had to be handled. Gallant Fox wouldn't work alone. And you had to be careful not to get him too far ahead of his field. If you did he would conclude the race was no contest and stop on you."

Which is praise indeed.

NOW IS THE TIME.

Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the party (sic) and do something about the ball club. It's all very well to say "What if it?" but the fact persists that the Crackers are in last place. And it isn't comfortable.

Hence this morning finds your faithful commentator following the example of William McGregor Keefe, of the New Orleans Times-Picayune. I hereby offer my services to the Crackers. Colonel Keefe has offered to play any position for the lowly Pelicans. The old Colonel in this department does likewise. Mr. Red Barron has but to call. Grim and uncertain, we wait.

This sudden switch of the delegates is expected to start things going. By nightfall the baseball writers of the city are expected to be standing in the aisle offering their services. Volunteer now during the emergency.

THE MYSTERY MAN.

Nick Cullop, the mystery man of baseball, equalled the American Association record for home runs in one inning by smashing out two yesterday.

Nick Cullop, the one-time hero of the Cracker outfield, remains one of the greatest mysteries in baseball. He is a slugger in the minors. In the majors he cannot hit his weight, as the boys say. Scouts say that the pitchers found out he could not hit a low outside curve ball. (Well, who can?) But this hardly holds as the Association pitchers would surely discover the same thing.

Cullop never liked the major leagues. He would rather be a hero in a small town than just one of the uniforms in a big one. Which is perhaps the best explanation of the mystery.

LITTLE ROCK'S CLIMB.

Little Rock startled the league Monday by the very independent Independence Day action of slapping the haughty Memphis Chicks a couple of blows.

The Travelers were one of the best clubs in the league last season. A slow start and injuries kept them down this year. The last few weeks have seen them climbing. They may yet make a race out of it with the Memphis and Chattanooga clubs.

The Memphis pitching staff, which is the bulwark of the leaders, can stand a slight slump. But one of any length would find them in danger.

WRAPPED IN CELLOPHANE.

A tip, carefully wrapped in cellophane to keep it until next year, is that Lance Richbourg, former Vol and Brave, is slated for a manager's job in the Southern Association next season.

King George's Horse Waddey Is Sought Wins English Race By Smokie Club

NOTTINGHAM, England, July 4.—(UP)—King George's Glascutter carried an impost of 22 pounds to victory in today's running of the Elyston Plate. Seven ran, with Lord Howard Dewaldens the favorite, 119 pounds, and J. H. S. Cannon's Bayonet, also 119 pounds, second and third, respectively. Glascutter won by a neck and Bayonet was beaten by a head. The king's entry paid 5 to 1. Fricasse 7 to 4 and Bayonet, the favorite, also 5 to 1.

GRANT, REESE WIN MATCHES DIXIE MEET

Simpson and Little Also Advance in Play at Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 4.—(P)—Dixie's two outstanding tennis rivals, Cliff Sutter, of New Orleans, and Grant, of Memphis, advanced through their first engagements in the men's singles of the southern tennis tournament here today.

Sutter, top seeded player and holder of the national intercollegiate singles crown, advanced to the third round by defeating Hudson Hamm, of Miami, 6-4, 6-1. He ranks sixth on the national list.

Grant, seeded next to his old rival, ranks twelfth nationally but was runner-up to Sutter in the intercollegiate play and has an impressive list of southern tournament championships. Four times—from 1927 to 1930, inclusive—he won the title. In a first-round match today he defeated Burtz Boulevard, of Tallahassee, Fla., 6-3, 6-3. In the second-round play, he defeated Dr. John Metz, Memphis, 6-2, 6-4.

HUGHES VICTOR.

Billy Hughes, of Memphis, seeded No. 4, won from Alexander Welford, of Memphis, 6-3, 6-1, in a second-round match and Dick Hassell, of New Orleans, defeated Merrill Parks, of Memphis, 6-2, 6-1. A. M. Cunningham, of Nashville, advanced to the third round play by defeating Pascal Wathall, of Austin, Texas, 6-4, 5-7, 6-4. Quin Connelly, of Houston, Texas, went up with him after turning back Ed Salamon Jr., of Memphis, 6-2, 6-0. Dan Murray, of New Orleans, sixth seeded player and 1928 southern champion, eliminated Malon Courts, of Atlanta, 6-7, 6-2, in a second-round battle.

Robert Lake, of Birmingham, won a first-round tilt by default from Pick Butler, of Memphis.

Second-round defaults gave Nathan Woodruff, of Memphis, a victory over Joe Folk, of Nashville; Robert Little, of Atlanta, over Tommy Vaughn, of Memphis; Ed Sutter, of New Orleans, over John Thompson, of Miami; Lake over Wilford Gragg, of Memphis; Arthur Orin, of Memphis, over Robert Chapman, of Nashville; and Russell Lee, of Miami, over George Boynton, of Atlanta.

Andy Metcalf, of Memphis, over C. W. Johnson, of Asheville, and Cecil Metz, Memphis, over C. D. Wilder, of Paris, Tenn.

SIMPSON ADVANCES.

Wilmer Hines, Columbia, S. C., defeated Burk Welton, Austin, Texas, in straight sets, 6-4, 9-7, and Bob Stewart, Pensacola, Fla., won 6-0, 6-1, over Evan Sellman, of Memphis.

Jack Simpson, of Atlanta, was the first to reach the fourth-round play. He easily defeated Ed Stansell, Memphis, in a third-round match late today, 6-0, 6-1.

Billy Reese, of Atlanta, fifth seeded player in the men's singles, took a second round match from Fleet Clark, of Memphis, 6-0, 6-0.

Another third-round match which ended as twilight enveloped the court resulted in victory for J. G. Fanford, of Mobile, over Hurrell, over Hurrell, of Birmingham, 6-0, 4-6, 6-4.

Although Reese and Clark did not finish their match until almost 12:30 p. m., it was the first score of the day to be posted. Play originally was scheduled to start at 9 o'clock, but another of the sudden and heavy showers which kept junior and boy players dodging on and off the courts last week started early in the morning.

In other second round matches J. C. Sanford, of Mobile, defeated A. J. Sullivan, of New Orleans, 6-3, 6-2, 7-5, and Harvey Terrell, of Birmingham, turned back Ferguson Colcock, of New Orleans, 8-6, 6-4. Ed Stansell, of Memphis, eliminated Charles Hull, of Memphis, 6-3, 6-0, and Ed Sutter, of New Orleans, conquered Sidney Simpson, of Atlanta, 6-1, 6-0. Val Wilson, of New Orleans, took a first round battle from J. E. Rice, of Tusculoo, 6-2, 6-3.

HAMM BEATEN.

Cliff Sutter, of New Orleans, top seeded player and national intercollegiate singles champion, defeated Hudson Hamm, of Miami, 6-4, 6-1, in a second round match. Harry Eastman, of New Orleans, finally won 5-7, 6-1, 6-2, in a second round engagement with Joe Whalen, of Miami.

While Jimmy Durham, of Memphis, was defeating Charles Ledinger, of Memphis, 6-3, 6-0, and Ed Sutter, of New Orleans, winning 6-0, 6-1, from Paul Seavy, of Memphis.

Kimbar Peterson, of Nashville, eliminated Lawrence Norton, of Memphis, in the second round, 6-4, 6-3, and John Metz, of Memphis, defeated George Dullung, of San Antonio, Texas, 6-4, 6-1, in a first round engagement.

Jack Taylor, of Austin, Texas, who caused several upsets in junior division play last week-end, eliminated J. D. Martin Jr., of Memphis, member of the University of Virginia tennis team, 7-5, 6-3, in a second round battle.

Fulton Bag Wins Over City Hall, 5-3

Fulton Bag defeated the City Hall team, 5 to 3. Monday afternoon on the Fulton diamond in a game called at the end of the fifth inning on account of rain.

The hitting of Tully was outstanding for the winners.

JONES BEATEN.

GATUN, Canal Zone, July 4.—(P)—Ryder, U. S. N., today won the 14th annual Isthmian amateur golf championship, defeating Captain Michael C. Jones, of Atlanta, 3 and 2, in the 36-hole final.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 4.—(P)—Frank Waddey, recently given his outright release by the Memphis Chicks, is being sought by the Knoxville base-ball club to replace Tommy Taylor, outfielder, who broke his leg in Sunday's game with Chattanooga.

Waddey, who has been offered a contract by Knoxville, informed the Knoxville Journal last night he would be glad to join the Smokies if he could obtain his release from the Springfield club of the Three-Eye league.

Nick Cullop Ties Home Run Record

TOLEDO, Ohio, July 4.—Nick Cullop, former Atlanta centerfielder, tied the American Association home run record in one inning when he hit two for Columbus here July 1. Cullop tied Eddie Kemna, also a former Southern leaguer, for the record.

Columbus defeated Toledo 24 to 5, and potted out six home runs for a total of 45 bases.

The Mule Returns to Old Pasture

"Mule" Shirley, the stout first baseman, once more is performing for the frequenters of the Atlanta baseball park after serving a sojourn with the Nashville Vols. After being let out by that team, Shirley came to Atlanta with Red Barron, signed a contract and played in yesterday's game. The Mule was with the Crackers for a year and has many friends here. This season with Nashville he batted at a .317 clip and drove in 69 runs. He was made a free agent when the Vols took on Al Van Camp, a first baseman sent down by the Boston Red Sox. Shirley failed to get any hits in the lone game played yesterday.—Photo by George Cornett.

WORKMAN RIDES CHICAGO WINNER ON HEAVY TRACK

Tred Avon Second, Dr. Freeland Third in Stars, Stripes.

By Charles W. Dunkley.

Associated Press Sports Writer. CHICAGO, July 4.—(P)—Equipose proved himself the greatest four-year-old thoroughbred in America today, when he followed up his victory in the $20,000 added Stars and Stripes handicap by a holiday throng of 25,000 at Arlington park.

The son of Pennant-Swining, owned by C. V. Whitney, of New York, out-classed his field to win the rich purse by three-quarters of a length ahead of Tred Avon, who did not finish. Freeland, third. The Nut finished fourth, a nose back of Dr. Freeland, with Paul Bayran fifth and Mate sixth. The field was reduced to six with the withdrawal of Canfil and Plucky Play. Equipose, which smashed the world's record for a mile at the course last week, ran the mile in a furlong over a track that was heavy and holding from Sunday's rains in 1:34 4-5. He went to the post a 1-103 favorite and paid $2.76 to win, $2.76 to place and $2.40 to show. The place price on Tred Avon was $2.00, with $2.04 to show, while Dr. Freeland paid $0.32 to show.

The race had a gross value of $27,550 and of this Equipose earned $22,200 for Owner Whitney. His earnings for 1932 were stretched to $46,825 as a result of four stake victories.

The tough track was made to order for the Whitney racer. Soapy Workman in a late Equipose was sent into the lead on the back stretch after The Nut had dashed out in front from the barrier. Workman clung to a short lead until the stretch was reached, when he shook up his mount and drew out into an advantage of three lengths. Tred Avon, ridden by Dick Schutte, to an exceptional performance, closed an enormous gap in the final dash. Equipose, under the crushing weight of 120 pounds, appeared to be tiring and floundering at the very end. Tred Avon, in the last 10th, was gaining with every jump, and the spectators were examining for Workman to keep his horse running, as almost everybody within the huge racing plant had a bet on Equipose.

Playtime Beats Pittsburgher.

LATONIA, Ky., July 4.—(P)—The first choice in the betting came home first in the Independence handicap at Latonia today, the Southland stable's Playtime beating out Mantle, the Pittsburgher, in a favorite to win the $5,000 added mile and an eighth event.

The three placers left the post one, two, three with Playtime in the lead, Mantle second and Pittsburgher third. They finished in that order, Playtime holding off the latter in the five-length lead and won shortly after the breakaway.

The track was more than sloppy and Playtime found the going most to his liking. He was owned by Brownell Combs, and the floundering favorite from the Shady Brook farm. Despite conditions, Playtime made the circuit in 2:54 3-5 to pay $18.34.

Cousin Joe, the fourth and last starter, was a hopeless last.

Happy Scot Wins Carter Handicap.

NEW YORK, July 4.—(UP)—The Cary Club's Happy Scot, running as an entry with Walter M. Jeffords' Ironclad, defeated Joseph E. Widener's Mr. Spongy by a scant head in the Carter handicap at Aqueduct today. Pompeius, the early pace-maker, was third, with Ironclad, Helianthus and Microphone straggling in the clubhouse. Playtime, the favorite, was second, and the race was the public choice at odds of 17 to 10.

Happy Scot, rated carefully while Pompeius paced the race, took a lead in the first half-mile, took a lead of two lengths turning for home but was all out to last the seven furlongs, which he ran in a fast track in 2:24 4-5. Jockey A. Robertson was in the saddle.

Daindaff earned $4,200 for C. V. Whitney, who also defied four-year-olds in the five-furlong Astoria stakes. She, too, was ridden by Robertson, and made every post a winning one, being timed at 1:30 1-5. White Legs took second, two lengths away, with Ship Abaze saving third.

Asheville Caddy Wins in Open Here

A cloudburst which converted a last year's cow pasture into a quagmire meant nothing to the first amateur golfer to open a golf championship here Monday, but it meant all to Johnny Denny.

Johnny is a self-spoken caddy up at the Asheville, N. C., Country Club, and he won the title because barrels of water plucked out the Lincoln Country Club course just as Joe Henderson, of Atlanta, defeated Roy Jones, Atlanta, 3 and 2, (68 to 60) for the title.

The "open" leaders' scores: Joe Henderson, Birmingham, 76-66-67—267. Roy Jones, New Orleans, 74-70-68-72—267. Charlie Harris, New Orleans, 73-68-70-78—269.

Johnny Smith, Atlanta, 71-73-61-66-290. Johnny Denny, Nashville, Tenn., 70-74-70-70—284.

A. D. V. Cross, Atlanta, 72-73-71-71—286.

THOMSON WINS.

LOUISVILLE, Ga., July 4.—In the first game of the second half of the Georgia-Carolina league series Thomson defeated the Reds here today, 5 to 4.

HAUGDAHL CAR MAKES BIG HIT

Despite Inclement Weather, 10,000 See Rocket Machine Run.

By Jimmy Jones.

Amid the rockets' red glare, but no bombs bursting in air, Sig Haugdahl, the silent Scandinavian, whirled around a slippery, muddy track in the fastest time he has ever made in his new discovery, the rocket car, at Lakewood park yesterday and just to make good his promise to a crowd estimated at 10,000 persons he made it half around again before his powder gave out.

Haugdahl's performance was nothing less than remarkable, since the track had been churned to a red-circular doughnut of mud by intermittent showers, making the turns treacherous and slippery. Considering that he has no way of governing the speed of the machine save by the impetus given it by the burning rockets, Haugdahl really did some phenomenal driving in piloting the trim machine over the course without mishap.

STARTED EARLY. Although the elements cut short the rest of the racing program, the bulk of the spectators, who were drawn there chiefly by anticipation of what a rocket car was like and the outdoor festivities of the day, were not disappointed. Haugdahl completed the lap and machine out of the canvas ahead of time in order to get in the run. His tow car got him started and he passed the grandstand under full speed, flames pouring out behind him.

The crowd, somewhat awestricken by the sight of a car moving noiselessly along at a speed exceeding 50 miles an hour, remained silent while Haugdahl completed the lap and then started back again. The veteran pilot wisely timed his rockets so that he had several spare ones underneath for the second trip. Most of this supply was touched off just before the first turn, but Sig Sigmund kept the car, some ahead despite the added impediment. Some of the onlookers were straining eyes and ears as if anticipating an explosion which would blow Haugdahl, car and all, in the lake, but none came.

GOOD ENOUGH. Neither Haugdahl nor any of the other rocket car pioneers have yet been able to invent a rocket that exploded simultaneously with ignition without curtailing the car's power. As it was, the spectacle was a new one to most of those present and one they probably will never forget.

Haugdahl, who is taking the car to Daytona Beach for further experimentation, hopes to invent a rocket with more noise-making propellants, just for the sake of the show.

Due to the absence of that famous Fourth of July weather, the Dixie Derby, feature event of this auto races, was cut in half after the running of two heats. A bright sun and blowing wind would have had the effect of blowing the rockets away and had not some more showers come along to split sprinkling the track.

CRASH. Walter Hines, Ga., and Bobby Green, of Pittsburgh, split first-place money for the event, since the former took the first heat and Green the second. Cal Lock finished a second and two-thirds. Louis Trotzier had motor trouble but placed a third.

Smith also was the hero of the boat races, carrying off first place in the eighth round of the other double windup fight.

Next to the rocket car exhibition, the event which attracted the crowd's fancy most was a darderei leap of a motorboat over an inclined platform in the water which had been fired with gasoline after several attempts by a brave youngster, Claude Smith, of Atlanta, who performed the feat given a big hand as he swam clear of his upturned boat and was hauled in.

SMITH IS HERO.

Next to the rocket car exhibition, the event which attracted the crowd's fancy most was a darderei leap of a motorboat over an inclined platform in the water which had been fired with gasoline after several attempts by a brave youngster, Claude Smith, of Atlanta, who performed the feat given a big hand as he swam clear of his upturned boat and was hauled in.

Smith also was the hero of the boat races, carrying off first place in the eighth round of the other double windup fight.

RESERVE TOPUSH ACCEPTANCE USE

BY FRANK H. MCCONNELL.
NEW YORK, July 4.—(AP)—The New York Federal Reserve District's banking and industrial committee will launch this week the more intensive phases of its campaign to introduce the comparatively little known trade acceptance to the American business world, as a means of loosening up credit.

The trade acceptance is not a total stranger here. It has been employed in limited fashion by manufacturers and wholesalers, but in most cases American businessmen have preferred to raise money for their commercial needs by getting direct loans from the banks. The trade acceptance, which is widely used abroad, is simply a draft, endorsed by two business institutions or individuals of good credit rating, which can be sold to, or discounted by, a bank.

Because it is rated as one of the highest forms of commercial credit, banks advancing money against trade acceptances can turn them over to federal reserve banks, getting funds in exchange.

Thus, the banks do not tie up so much of their loanable funds as in the case of advancing direct loans. Use of trade acceptances is expected to enable the banks to finance a considerably larger volume of business than they can by advancing money direct.

The banking and industrial committee, of which Owen D. Young is chairman, announced its program of encouraging wider use of trade acceptances last week. Early this week, the committee hopes to name a subcommittee which will take over the work of directing the campaign to induce businessmen to employ this form of credit more widely. In addition, the committee has requested similar groups of bankers and industrialists, co-operating with the federal reserve banks, to push the use of trade acceptances in other districts throughout the country.

Mr. Stewart Baker, chairman of the Manhattan Company, is among the executives who are supporting the central committee in its campaign to widen the use of trade acceptances.

Mr. Baker holds that the employment of trade acceptances by the larger corporations, even though they may be well unholstered with bank balances, can be directed to loanable credit. The plan, however, is not so vital a necessity, he believes, to the large corporations as to the smaller businesses, which, in selling goods and receiving an acceptance instead of an account receivable "would have an asset on which fresh credit could be created."

Although Mr. Young's committee has declined to add anything to its formal statement, it is known that its plan has received commendation from many corporations.

Among the leading figures in commerce who have approved the campaign are Irene Dupont, vice chairman of E. I. duPont & Co.; A. P. Slors, Jr., president of General Motors Corporation, and A. W. Robertson, chairman of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company.

Up-and-Down Race Planned for Air Meet

CLEVELAND, July 4.—(AP)—A five-mile straight up-and-down race probably will be added to the national air races to be staged August 27 to September 5, Cliff W. Henderson, managing director, said today.

The pilots would climb to an imaginary point five miles above the Cleveland airport and do a power dive back to within 40 feet of the ground.

Henderson predicted the event, while open to both commercial and military ships, eventually would become a gauge of the engine performance, climbing, diving and load-carrying ability of the military craft of various nations.

NEW YORK, July 4.—While the general stock market discounted the recent reductions and omissions of important dividends, another test of prices undoubtedly will occur this month when the reports of earnings for the second quarter begin to appear.

Despite vast economies inaugurated by big business, these earnings are expected to make a poor showing, and publication undoubtedly will be followed by dislodgment of stock held by timid investors.

The fact that some authorities expect the steel industry, now operating at 15 per cent of capacity, to show further contraction this month is considered discouraging.

There is a growing belief the fall months will show some betterment in industry and trade.

This expectation is based largely upon the depleted stocks of merchants and the fact that the government's policy of preventing further deflation gradually is being manifested in a number of directions. This is particularly true with regard to the aggressive efforts made to strengthen the market for United States government securities.

Other causes for optimism are the important work being done to alleviate the financial straits of the common carriers and the efforts to stimulate building through adoption of a policy by many banks of letting customers know that they can borrow to construct homes.

The speed with which the Chicago banking trouble was remedied also would seem to indicate a real determination to prevent disturbances which would undermine confidence in the credit situation.

Still another encouraging sign is that the bond pool has become more aggressive. Buying operations by the pool showed considerable contraction during the Chicago bank trouble but became impressive thereafter.

BIBB GIRL RESERVES ENJOY CAPITAL VISIT

Macon, Columbus and Porterdale Groups Stop Here on Way Home.

Tired from a week-end of sights and excitement but happy nevertheless, 65 girl reserves of the Bibb Manufacturing Company disembarked for a "stretch" from their train into the drizzling atmosphere of the Terminal station Monday afternoon as their trip to Washington drew near a close.

The group came from Macon, Columbus and Porterdale, where each belonged to the girl reserves of the mill branches in those cities. After having been together since Friday when they left Atlanta for Washington they were again separated to return to their respective homes.

The girls from the different mills were reluctant to part from their newly made acquaintances but seemed to accept the inevitable with the hope that there would be more trips when they would be together again.

For nearly a year these girls have been saving their money and looking forward to this trip and they were not disappointed. Under the leadership of Mrs. Pearl Taylor, superintendent of social service in the mills, they visited every place of interest in Washington, Mrs. Charles R. Crisp, wife of the Georgia congressman, made it possible for them to be escorted through the White House. They visited the capitol where a veterans' demonstration was going on and all the museums. But the climax of the visit came when they were taken on a moonlight trip up the Potomac river.

The only disappointment came when they found that the president was out of the city and they were unable to see him.

The girls are all connected with the Bibb Manufacturing Company in some way. Part of them work and the others belong to families who are employed by the mills. Each one has belonged to reserve organizations for at least three years attending the annual summer camp sponsored by the company each year.

But it's over now for another year and the girls will sleep well tonight after their long trip, dreaming of the things they have seen and hoping that there will be others in the near future.

Taxable value of horses in Montana has decreased more than 50 per cent since 1923.

Roosevelts Likely To Be 3d Family Father of Six Shot To Place 2 Members in White House In Harlan County

Note: Jacobus and Johannes Roosevelt, grandsons of the clan's founder in America, headed the two politically opposed branches of the Roosevelt family. Johannes' descendants became republicans and out of them, Theodore, was elected to the White House. The children of Jacobus embraced the opposite political faith and today one of his descendants is the democratic nominee for the presidency. The fascinating history of the Roosevelt family is sketched in the second of two articles supplied by the Associated Press. Walter T. Brown, chief of the Albany bureau of the Associated Press, tells the story of the interesting genealogy.

BY WALTER T. BROWN.
ALBANY, N. Y., July 4.—(AP)—Only two families have sent more than one member to the presidency of the United States, the Adamses and the Roosevelts. The Roosevelts were the third, as Theodore Roosevelt, the twenty-sixth president, was a fifth cousin of the first, George Washington. An excursion to Washington is being planned to commemorate the anniversary.

Police men who break up city auto-mobility while chasing run runners will do so at their own expense. Chief of Police T. O. Connelley warned the morning watch early Monday morning. The city will pay for damages where city cars are run into in the ordinary course of duty, but spectacular chase after whisky cars which end in wrecks are not. Chief Sturdivant said. He also warned the officers against unnecessary roughness in handling prisoners.
